7. Public Comment: offered at 8:14pm with six comments. Mike Bossory asked the board before we spend money on the culvert on Eisman Road to look at the one further north. There is no shoulder and dangerous for 2 cars to try and pass. He may get a petition signed by his neighbors to close Eisman Road between Bethel Church and Pfauss Road. Beth Heuser can't understand why the planning commission voted to not update the zoning ordinance for the area around Pleasant Lake.

Matt Little shared the proposed amendment to the zoning ordinance would not be simpler. There would be more requirements for building.

Carol Westfall was bothered by the process and the way the vote went down on the lake zoning proposed changes. After 1 year of research, PC chair and supervisor support, and a public hearing with good feedback, it came to a halt. She thought there would be discussion and tweak the proposed amendment. That did not happen. We need to look at several things, not just the high-water mark but also manage height, grade, and enforcement. We should not wait until the next building project with problems. Would like to see the work of a compromise solution. (Her full statement is attached to the minutes)

Chris Mikesell would like to ask the board to amend the proposal that the planning commission voted on to make no changes to the zoning ordinance. She thought it was a good public hearing with comments of support and concern for the proposed zoning ordinance amendments. The language seemed a little confusing and it would be nice to simplify it. We can't meet all the requests, but we need to address a few because doing nothing is not the answer. The time has been invested, the money spent but the work has not been done to address concerns with zoning around Pleasant Lake.

Hattie Carson shared that branches from a tree between Ron Smith's and Melinda Ring's house were cut up and pushed onto Pickrel Drive. A letter should be sent to Melinda Ring that debris from your own property should not be moved to public property for clean-up.

Public comment closed at 8:41pm.
