Blue Ridge National Heritage Area RUTHERFORD COUNTY NARRATIVE SUMMARY

Rutherford County located in the Southern Appalachian foothills at the southeastern corner of Western North Carolina is a county of 61,000 citizens covering 563 square miles, making it the state's third largest county. The diverse landscape ranges in elevations from 806 feet at Caroleen to 3,967 feet at Sugar Loaf Mountain and includes forests and fields, rivers and streams, a moderate thermal belt climate, mountains, resorts, small towns and communities, beautiful trees, rock, vistas and a rich history and heritage. Its neighbors are Burke, McDowell, Polk, Henderson, Buncombe and Cleveland County in North Carolina and Cherokee and Spartanburg County in South Carolina. The County is in close proximity to the metropolitan areas of Asheville, Charlotte, Greenville, Spartanburg and to several major highway corridors.

Human beings have inhabited this landscape for thousands of years and artifacts and mounds are testimony. White and black settlers arrived here in the 1730's through 1760's. The area was once the center of Tryon County, which was formed from Mecklenburg County in 1768. Rutherford County and Lincoln County were formed from Tryon in April 1779. Rutherford County is named for Brigadier General Griffith Rutherford of Rowan County, a famous Revolutionary War soldier and leader of the Rutherford Trace.

The County's formative years coincide with a drastic decline in the Cherokee and Catawba Indian populations largely attributed to epidemic diseases. The American Revolution began here with a conflict with the Cherokees encouraged by the British government. Some people were massacred and local forts were besieged. Settlers, attacked by both Indian and Tory, built forts as arsenals for protection. These forts included Fort McGaughey, Fort McFadden, Pott's Fort, Hampton's Fort, Munford's Fort and Earle's Fort. In the fall of 1776, in response to the conflict with the Cherokees, General Griffith Rutherford collected some 2,400 militia out of Rutherford and other counties and marched against the Cherokees destroying thirty-six of their towns. This campaign is named the Rutherford Trace.

Many of the earliest settlers to Western North Carolina were of Scotch-Irish origin who traveled down the Great Wagon Road from Pennsylvania into the Carolina piedmont and then came west to settle the fertile lands of the foothills and mountains. Britain Presbyterian Church, located in present-day Rutherford County, is documented as the oldest church chartered west of the Catawba River in North Carolina. Its congregation was formed in 1768, and it can be assumed that the community of Westminster that surrounds the church was one of the first permanent settlements in the region.

Gilbert Town was established as the county seat of old Tryon County in 1769 and as such is the oldest documented county seat in all of Western North Carolina. Rutherford County was formed from Tryon County in 1779 and Gilbert Town remained the county seat for Rutherford until 1787 when it was moved to a more suitable geographic location, renamed Rutherford Town (Rutherfordton), and a new courthouse constructed. This fact allows Rutherfordton the distinction of being the home of Western North Carolina's oldest continuing body of government.

When Rutherford County was formed in 1779 it encompassed, not only the land within its current borders, but territories originally belonging to Tryon County that have since become Polk County and parts of McDowell, Henderson, and Cleveland. In addition, when Rutherford County was originally formed, its western boundary extended into present-day Tennessee. It was only after Buncombe County's formation from Rutherford and Burke counties in 1791 that the remaining counties of Western North Carolina were formed. Thus, Rutherford County shares the distinction with Burke County of being the mother of most of the territory of present-day Western North Carolina.

The County's Revolutionary War history continues with the Overmountain Men Victory March. Citizen soldiers assembled starting in Tennessee and adding recruits as they continued across what are now nine western North Carolina counties. They marched through Rutherford County on October 3-5, 1780. On October 7, 1780, these citizen soldiers, including those from Rutherford, met and defeated Major Patrick Ferguson and his Tory troops at the Battle of Kings Mountain. The battle is considered the turning point of Southern Campaign of the Revolutionary War and the March is commemorated in the Overmountain Victory National Historic Trail. Eighteen miles of the historic trail traverse Rutherford County.

Gilbert Town has the distinction of being the only site in this Campaign where both Loyalists and Patriot forces encamped. Major Patrick Ferguson camped there and the British bivouacked there for several weeks. The Overmountain Men camped at Gilbert Town on their way to and from the Battle of Kings Mountain and early in 1781, following their brilliant victory at the Battle of Cowpens, the Patriot troops came to Gilbert Town to tend the wounded and confine their prisoners.

Gilbert Town's role in the history of this Revolutionary War Campaign is distinguished by the exceptionally large number of troops who passed through. It too is made prominent by the notable Revolutionary figures who are documented as being at Gilbert Town. These include John Sevier, Isaac Shelby, Daniel Morgan, William Washington, Francis Marion, Andrew Pickens, Patrick Ferguson, Banastre Tarleton, Griffith Rutherford, Benjamin Cleveland and Felix Walker.

Following the Revolutionary War, citizens returned to their lands. Travel was difficult and roads were poor but the Broad, Second Broad and Green Rivers were waterways to the markets at Columbia, SC. In 1820, navigation on the Broad River between Twitty's Ford and the South Carolina line was improved with a state appropriation of $5000. The Broad River was navigable and was a major transportation route especially for the farm and home products which were in demand in the Charleston and Columbia, SC markets.

In the 1830's the county prospered. Stagecoach routes carrying both people and the mail made traveling and communication easier. Stagecoach routes included one from Lincolnton through Hollis and Golden Valley to Rutherfordton and then on thorough the Hickory Nut Gorge to Asheville. Another route wound from Spartanburg across Island Ford to Harris, through Rutherfordton, Hickory Nut Gorge, and on to Asheville. Along these routes both post offices and way stations or inns developed. In addition, drovers followed the road from Morganton to Charleston, SC, where they sold or exchanged their surplus livestock for staple goods. Although economic conditions were difficult and the cost of land high, citizens were largely self-sufficient and signs of industrialization in the county began. Records indicate a large quantity of iron was produced at the High Shoals Iron Works near present day Henrietta.

In 1829, the General Assembly appropriated $12,000, to complete a road through Hickory Nut Gap to Asheville thus opening the western counties to travelers from the east, piedmont and foothills of North Carolina and to those from low country and mid regions South Carolina as well.

For a few brief years in the 1830's and 1840's, the hill country to the west and north of Rutherfordton led the entire United States in the mining of gold. Although raw gold was abundant, gold coins as a medium of exchange were not. No reliable, reputable, or accurate way to sell gold or to exchange it for good and services and no safe way to have it assayed existed. State and federal currency was scarce. Gold nuggets and gold dust poured from a quill were used to purchase items such as sugar, coffee and whiskey and merchants and miners often kept a set of pocket scales for weighing gold which was commonly used for payment.

Christopher Bechtler, his son Augustus, and a nephew, Christopher, Jr., came to North Carolina in 1830. Experienced German metal workers from the Grand Duchy of Baden, they first came to America in 1829 and settled briefly in Philadelphia. When in 1830 they opened a jewelry store in Rutherfordton they apparently soon realized the need for a reliable means of economic exchange. In 1828, the US Congress had rejected a proposal by Samuel Price Carson to have a branch of the United States Mint established in Rutherfordton. Therefore, the Bechtlers decided to coin gold themselves and began the most important private mints ever operated in this country located approximately three and one-half miles northwest of Rutherfordton. In July 1831, using hand-crafted dies and presses, the Bechtlers began striking coins in at least two denominations - $2.50 and $5.00 pieces - and soon they coined the very first $1.00 gold coins in America. The Bechtlers also manufactured necklaces, earrings, brooches, rings, buttons, cufflinks, watches, and a variety of firearms including several types of pistols sold in their store in Rutherfordton.

The Bechtlers minted $2,241,850.50 in currency and fluxed an additional $1,384,000 in raw gold between 1831 and 1840. They handled more North Carolina gold during the period than the Philadelphia Mint and the Charlotte Branch Mint (founded 1837) combined. The death of Christopher Bechtler, Sr. in 1842 and the decline of the gold industry in North Carolina following the discovery of gold in California in 1848 resulted in the closing of the Bechtler Mint.

Although North Carolina was the last state to join the Confederacy, 1,734 men from Rutherford County fought in the Civil War. In 1865, a campaign known as Stoneman's Raid occurred. Rutherford County's history includes two occurrences relating to this campaign. First a contingent made up largely of Southern recruits known as "home Yankees" led by General Gillem found themselves blocked at Swannanoa Gap near Old Fort. They entered Rutherford County from the Montford's Cove region of present day McDowell County and proceeded to Rutherfordton where they burned buildings and thoroughly trounced citizens. On the following day a group of regular Union troops led by General Palmer came into Rutherford from Mecklenburg following the Lincolnton stagecoach line. They apologized to the people of Rutherfordton for the actions of Gillem's troops. Palmer then proceeded to the Green River, reportedly stopping at the Green River Plantation, before continuing from present day Polk County on to Asheville.

With the end of the War came the building of railroads and the ability for people, produce and products to more easily be shipped to markets. At one time, five railroads operated in the County. During the post-war years, agriculture remained the principal industry. There were no banks and the railroads and public roads were in need or repair. However, by 1873, a system of post offices and mail -routes were re-established and schools were operating in various communities.

Rutherford County's economy began an upswing with the beginnings of the textile industry. In 1874, the first textile plant located in an old wheat mill on the Second Broad River near present day Henrietta opened. It manufactured cotton yarn and employed fifty persons but operated only a few months before being destroyed by fire. In 1885, R. R. Haynes and S. B. Tanner began their textile industry in the county with the building of a cotton mill near Henrietta. Along with the mill they built a mill village with homes for the workers, a school, and a company store. They even helped build churches. Other textile mills and villages began operations in Avondale, Forest City, Cliffside, Spindale, Rutherfordton and Ruth. Into the 21st century, textiles remained an important economic force in the county. The legacy of this industry, its people, products, and traditions remain an important part of the county's history and heritage. As a by-product of the textile industrialization, hospital insurance in the textile mills was "born" in Rutherford County.

In the early 1900's, the county experienced improvements in the area of education, roads and railroads. Rutherford Hospital opened in October 1906. Chimney Rock Park was conceived in 1922 by Dr. Lucis B. Morse with the idea of building a summer resort. The Lake Lure Dam covering one thousand five hundred acres of land was built in 1926. And while the Great Depression resulted the hardship of no work and no markets for the goods produced, the citizens of Rutherford relied on their resiliency and tradition of self-sufficiency. Despite the hardships, four of Rutherford County's banks did not close during this time.

In the 1930's, traditional music with banjo, mandolin and fiddle was a popular form of entertainment. Snuffy Jenkins was born in Harris and his and other Rutherford County musicians are known for the three-finger picking style, locally known as the Broad River style. Jenkins and other musicians participated in the Hollis Fiddler's Convention that was held for more than fifty years. The Ellenboro Fiddler's Convention is now held annually on the Saturday before Thanksgiving and traditional music and gospel are performed and taught in a number of venues throughout the county.

Well into the 20th century, agriculture and textiles drove the county's economy. During the 1940's, nearly 6,000 men and women from the county served in World War II. Residents produced "war crops" and plants manufactured war goods. The U.S. Government leased the Lake Lure Inn and surrounding buildings to house a "rest and recuperation" center for returning air corpsmen and about 5,000 men stayed in the Inn during this period.

Rutherford County's growth and prosperity has continued with the development of Isothermal Community College and the construction of new public schools including Rutherford-Spindale Central High with a performing arts facility. The Foundation, a performing arts center located on the Isothermal Community College Campus, opened in the 1990's and Rutherford Hospital has continued to enhance both the medical staff and services to the citizens of the area. The County has completed renovation of its court house, constructed a modern Senior Center, and been designated an e-community. A Business and Technology Center is slated to open in the near future.

Agriculture and tourism remain vital to the economic well being of the county. In addition, the County experienced diversification in its industry to include plastics, bearings and others. With the shift offshore of the textile, sewing operations and furniture industries, Rutherford County is in the process of redefining itself for the 21st Century. Citizens for whom arts and crafts and farming were an avocation are now relying on these previously avocations as their means of livelihood. The County is experiencing tremendous growth in the numbers of persons retiring to the area, purchasing second homes or locating primary residencies given the natural beauty, plentiful land, and convenient location. Growth and change were the impetus for the development a strategic plan created by the citizens of the County. The plan, realizeRutherford, is in place and identifies strategies for enhancing economic benefits and quality of life in the County . The plan is now in the implementation stage.

In partnership with the Blue Ridge National Heritage Area Board of Directors; North Carolina Department of Commerce Division of Travel, Tourism, Film and Sports Development; Advantage West; Rutherford County Government; Rutherford Economic Development Commission and realizeRutherford; Rutherford Tourism Development Authority; Rutherford County Chamber of Commerce; Rutherford County Historical Society; Genealogical Society of Old Tryon County; Rutherford County Arts; Parks and Recreation Commission; Rutherford Outdoor Coalition; Isothermal Planning and Development Commission; Rutherford County Cooperative Extension; Community Centers of Rutherford County; Towns; Villages and Communities; the National Park Service; Foothills Conservancy; the Overmountain Victory National Historic Trail; KidSenses Interactive Children's Museum; Isothermal Community College; WNCW-FM Public Radio and numerous other groups, individuals and organizations including historians and advisors from the county and from each community, the process of developing a Rutherford County Heritage Plan began. In August 2004, community leaders with the assistance of a consultant from Western Carolina University and Advantage West began the process of developing a county plan slated to become a part of the management plan for the Blue Ridge National Heritage Area. In November 2004, eleven communities meetings were held across the county. More than 180 persons attended meetings held in both daytime and evening at eleven locations. From the information gathered about community assets and needs and priorities, the Rutherford Heritage Council with the advice and assistance of countless community advisors and historians, and representatives of numerous organizations and agencies have worked diligently for more than nine months to develop the Rutherford County Heritage Plan.

The Plan includes forty-nine worthwhile projects with a broad base of county support. Among these projects are facilities at which history and heritage may be retold; historical and genealogical projects; initiatives focusing on preservation and conservation, agricultural initiatives, community development projects; promotional projects including signage; beautification and cyber-tourism; and a series of trail and greenways/blueways initiatives as the beginning for a unified county trail system. The top three priorities that have emerged for are the preservation of Gilbert Town, the Bechtler history and heritage, and the preservation, protection and promotion of towns and communities as representative of the character that is Rutherford County.

While the Rutherford County Heritage Plan is monumental in sheer number of initiatives, the Plan represents the aspirations to preserve, protect and promote that which makes Rutherford County unique in the landscape and as part of the Blue Ridge National Heritage Area. One challenge is that each project requires a champion or champions to see the project to fruition. Some champions have already emerged. Other volunteers and champions will be required. Keeping the enthusiasm that has been generated by the planning process and in the Gateway Training is critical to implementation. Although the Heritage Council is certain that funding to implement projects is "out there" the challenge is to focus on the many sources that exist.

Much has already been accomplished in the initial implementation. Meetings are scheduled and discussions are underway on numerous projects. Citizens and leaders are asking "how may I help." Partnerships within the county and with neighboring counties have already emerged. The overall desire of the county partners and that of neighboring county partnerships is to work collectively to make these projects the catalyst for preserving the county's and region's unique identify, to protect each community's "points of pride" and to utilize these to both enhance the quality of life and the economic well-being of the area known as the Blue Ridge National Heritage Area.

Blue Ridge National Heritage Area RUTHERFORD COUNTY INITIATIVE WORKSHEET

Initiative Title: Rutherford County Heritage Center

Project Narrative:	Rutherford County enjoys a unique place in the history and heritage of present day Western North Carolina. The County’s rich history, its diverse culture and heritage and wealth of natural resources have been identified as assets by county residents in community meetings held across the County. Citizens have deemed these assets as “points of pride” worthy of preservation and celebration and those which should be shared locally and with persons who visit the County. The Rutherford County Heritage Center will be the focal facility or hub for several facilities planned in the County. Major stories and history, which have local, regional and national significance, will be retold here. It will house artifacts and collections depicting significant events, culture and traditions. It will serve as one of several visitor hubs throughout the County to fully serve local citizens and visitors to the area given the County’s size in land area. The Center is proposed as public/private project. Potential partners will be developed through continuing dialogue and a feasibility study. Under consideration as partners to share resources and expenses are the Rutherford Chamber of Commerce, Rutherford County Historical Society, Genealogical Society of Old Tryon County, and the Rutherford County Arts Council which has a collection of artifacts stored. Anchor stories to be depicted are: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Early history: Pre-historic and Pre-tribal; Native America: Cherokee and others; Early Settlers: Scots-Irish and others; Historic homes, churches, forts and stockades; Land grants; Families and genealogy; Post offices; Stagecoach routes, inns and health resorts; County’s place in the early history of Western North Carolina; Gilbert Town and its significance Revolutionary War Era; Overmountain Victory Trail; Bechtler Mint/House/Mine and Gold History; Stoneman’s Raid; County firsts and noteworthy citizens; Early sports history and firsts; Music Heritage – five finger banjo playing, Hollis Fiddler’s Convention, Ellenboro Fiddler’s Convention, Golden Valley Music Park, Snuffy Jenkins, P. RUTHERFORD COUNTY INITIATIVE WORKSHEET

Initiative Title:	The Florence Cotton Mill Legacy
-------------------	---------------------------------

Project Narrative:	A nonprofit organization will be formed as a part of the Florence Mill Redevelopment Project that will preserve the legacy of the past and develop a legacy for the future. Entitled Florence Mill Legacy, Inc., the organization will work to preserve, develop, enhance, and celebrate the importance of the mill to past and future growth of Forest City. Under the umbrella of Florence Mill Legacy, Inc. will fall a history society, garden club, and events committee. The first priority of the nonprofit is to be involved in the conceptual design of the public spaces, including the atrium, meeting room, pavilion, and gardens. Once the Florence mill is open, the organization will work to engage people in understanding the legacy of the mill, and cultivating community through events and activities for all ages and interests.

Initiative Title: Chimney Rock Museum & Visitors Center

Project Narrative:	Chimney Rock Village situated in the center of historical Hickory Nut Gorge is located in a beautiful natural setting lying directly below the famous vistas of Chimney Rock Mountain and containing almost three miles of the scenic Rocky Broad River. With its magnificent display of rugged cliffs, native wildlife, a 400-foot waterfall and incredible rock formations, the Village also is the entrance of Chimney Rock Park which annually brings approximately 250,000 visitors to the Village. Hickory Nut Gorge is a textbook on rock formations and the geological history in the Eastern United States with both Chimney Rock and Bat Cave, the largest natural fissure case in the U.S. The area forms one of the few natural gaps in the mountains and was a passageway for people traveling west. It was important to the migration of people into other sections of Western North Carolina and into other states. Chimney Rock Village and the surrounding Gorge have a rich history including that of pre-tribal Indian inhabitants, Cherokee and Catawba Indians and, stagecoach routes, early tourism is in the area, historic inns and way stations. In addition, many famous people have visited the area and movies have been made there. Artifacts and memorabilia and stories are plentiful to support this early history and heritage. And the area is rich in legends and oral history and intriguing stories. The Chimney Rock Museum/Visitor Center will be one of several facilities in the County at which the rich history and heritage will be preserved and shared. The facility will be developed in conjunction with ample parking for the town and public restrooms. In addition, as a separate project a Village Green is to be constructed on land that has already been purchased by the Village. This will be the venue for festivals and performances and programs and community events.

Initiative Title:	Hickory Nut Gorge Visitor Center and Museum Facility
Project Narrative:	The Hickory Nut Gorge Visitor Center, located in Lake Lure, is operated by the HNG Chamber of Commerce and is staffed by one part time employee and volunteers. It operates seven days a week. The facility is extremely small and inadequate to serve the 58,000 people who come into the facility on an annual basis. In order to more adequately serve the visitors, a larger facility which can house the Chamber and possibly a western TDA office, full and part time staff with pictorial displays about the heritage of the area are needed. We could then have a specific heritage "voice" for the area. Historical pieces that are scattered throughout the gorge area could then be centrally located and preserved. The TDA currently appropriates $550/month towards the center. The Chamber is not structured nor appropriately funded for the expected growth of tourism in the Lake Lure Area.
Goal:	Establish a Hickory Nut Gorge Historic Preservation Foundation or private non-profit status to begin seeking grant funding. Seek approval from the Town of Lake Lure to allow the facility to be enlarged to accommodate the needs set forth above. Seek partnerships between the Hickory Nut Gorge Chamber of Commerce and the Rutherford County Tourism Development Authority to operate and staff the facility. Initiative Title: Afro-American Heritage/Cultural Resources Center

Project Narrative:	The African American people in Rutherford County have a rich history of historic communities such as Grahamtown and Freeman Town, schools and churches, and landowners, business professionals, and farmers. In addition, an important history can be traced in the social and economic evolution of the African American people from the birth of the county to the present day. This initiative will pull together not only the history and contribution of the African American residents of the county, but work toward continuing that contribution to the cultural, economic, and social fabric of Rutherford County today. The focal point of the initiative is the creation of the Afro-American Cultural/Heritage Resource Center at the historic Old Dunbar School Community Center. The Center will be a place that will provide information depicting the evolution of the Afro-American historical heritage and culture through reading materials, pamphlets, maps, books, and other materials of interest. The Center will house displays of artifacts, crafts, and Afro-American art featuring artists and writers in the county. The Center will be open to the public, and in addition, tours will be made available to other places in the county that are worthy of historic recognition in depicting the lifestyles and culture of the Afro-American county resident. The purpose of this project will be to coordinate efforts to tell the complete story of Afro-American persons in Rutherford County from the earliest mentioned to the present day.

Initiative Title:	The Abraham Lincoln Birth Place in Bostic
-------------------	---

Project Narrative:	There is substantial evidence that Abraham Lincoln, 16th President of the United States was born in Bostic, North Carolina. Biographies, testimonies, and affidavits have consistently pointed to his birthplace on Puzzle Creek, located off Walker Mill Road. Abraham Enloe farmed the surrounding area and had a homestead. Evidence of the cellar and stone work may still be seen. Nancy Hanks and her mother were in the care of Enloe. It is documented that when Nancy Hanks married Tom Lincoln, a young boy was at the ceremony. Abraham Enloe provided Tom Lincoln with $500, a wagon and a team of horses for himself and his new wife, Nancy Hanks, to travel west. While Lincoln’s parentage on his father’s side has not been determined, efforts are underway with DNA testing that may indeed put the matter to rest. This will underscore the words of John Wilkes Boothe in his biography when he traveled through western North Carolina and called it the “land of Lincoln’s birth”. Interestingly, these assertions began prior to the Civil War

Goal:	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. To cooperate with the organizations that are working to identify through DNA testing, Abraham Lincoln’s parentage. 2. To preserve the site on Puzzle Creek 3. To further document the story of Nancy Hanks and Abe Lincoln in Rutherford County

Initiative Title: Purple Martin Amphitheater – Rutherfordton

Project Narrative:	The Town of Rutherfordton with a unique history, especially during the period of the Revolutionary War, has more than 3 miles of the Overmountain Victory National Historic Trail running through it. While the commemorative motor route courses down Main Street or Hwy. 221 South, the original or historic trail followed the route between Green and Southern Streets along Cleghorn Creek. The property along Cleghorn Creek on the east side of Main Street is ideally suited for the construction of an open-air amphitheater, which can be constructed along a greenway running along the creek. The amphitheater is to be named the Purple Martin Amphitheater to recognize the family crest of General Griffith Rutherford for whom the town is named. The amphitheater can be utilized for historical presentation commemorating the Overmountain men and their successfully defeating the Loyalists led by General Patrick Ferguson at the Battle of Kings Mountain. In addition, the community can use the amphitheater for festivals, re-enactments, programs at large. The Purple Martin Amphitheater is one part of the Overmountain Victory National Historic Trail initiative proposed by the Town of Rutherfordton and will reflect the Town’s Master Plan which will emphasize the Town’s history and heritage. Appropriate signage and interpretative displays will echo this theme.

Initiative Title: Chimney Rock Village Green

Project Narrative:	Chimney Rock Village is nestled at the foot of Chimney Rock Mountain and in the beautiful natural setting of historical Hickory Nut Gorge. Within it's borders course three miles of the scenic Rocky Broad River and it is surrounded by a magnificent display of rugged cliffs, native wildlife, a 400 hundred foot waterfall and incredible rock formations. In the Village also is the entrance to Chimney Rock Park, a Blue Ridge treasure and a natural attraction bringing some 300,000 persons through the Village each year. In 2003, the Chimney Rock council purchased for $400,000 a parking lot located on Main Street that will provide 100 additional spaces for the central business district across from the Chimney Rock Park Gates. Funding was provided by a grant from the North Carolina Department of Environmental and Natural Resources and from the Village Council. The parking lot will not only be used for public parking but also will be developed as a central village green space with an amphitheater. The Chimney Rock Village Green will be used as a venue for performances, festivals and presentations, gatherings and community events. A $5,000 planning grant has been received from the Rural Center. Developing a plan, reviewing the proposed design, seeking grants to landscape and provide a sidewalk to the area, removing the apparatus remaining from a previously constructed chair lift on the property, and building a coordinating greenway are next steps in the process. Matching funds for many projects are raised by the Community Development Association which sponsors bingo games, sells hot dogs and actively volunteers in many aspects of enhancing their community. Their goal is to develop an image that is more reflective of the natural setting, the mountain heritage and culture of the area.

Initiative Title: Preservation of Rutherford County’s Musical Heritage

Project Narrative:	As part of the Appalachian Mountains, Rutherford County has a rich heritage of both traditional music and dance. Natives of the county played an integral role in the development of the bluegrass music. Snuffy Jenkins, born in Harris in October 1908, is widely recognized as the pioneer of the bluegrass banjo. Two-finger picking style was as common in the county as well as throughout the mountains as “frailing” or “clawhammer” style banjo. The Rutherford County banjo trio of Snuffy Jenkins, Smith Hammett, and Rex Brooks played a different three-finger picking style of banjo. Snuffy Jenkins provides the direct link between old time string band music and bluegrass. A protégé of this banjo trio was a young Earl Scruggs of nearby Flint Hill in Cleveland County. Earl Scruggs perfected the style and in the mid-40s joined up with the “father of bluegrass”, Bill Monroe and the Bluegrass Boys of Kentucky. Bill Monroe’s “high lonesome sound” became the distinctive and definitive sound of bluegrass as it is known today. String band music and later bluegrass, was well known in Rutherford County. The Hollis Fiddler’s Convention was begun by J.P.D. Withrow in 1924 and continued on through the 1960, s. A 19 year old banjo picker named Earl Scruggs was in the Carpenter Band that won first place one year at the Hollis convention. Ben Humphries picked up the tradition with the Harris Bluegrass festival in the 1970’s. Today, the tradition continues with the Ellenboro Fiddler’s Convention held each November. In addition, traditional music continues to be played at different venues in the County and is taught to young and old alike who are today learning to play the banjo, fiddle and mandolin. To honor and further promote traditional music, a weekend-long annual festival will be established which will attract performers, instrument makers, music historians and music lovers from across the county, as well as providing ongoing workshops and venues for local students and performers year-round.
--------------------	--

Goal:	1. Increase awareness of Rutherford County as one of the places of origin of “Scruggs-style” banjo playing

	2. Increase tourism revenues by attracting banjo enthusiasts and mountain music aficionados 3. Create gathering places for exchange of information and ideas and inspiring regarding all styles of banjo playing 4. Initiative Title: WNCW 88.7 FM Public Radio & Traditional Music

Project Narrative:	WNCW 88.7 FM is a broadcast service of Isothermal Community College in Spindale, NC. WNCW has a format that includes Americana music and traditional music of Southern Appalachia. It offers eight hours of bluegrass music on Saturdays during Goin' Across the Mountain, and bluegrass gospel music on Sunday mornings during Gospel Truth. This Old Porch offers three hours of Old Time music on Sundays. Throughout weekday music programming, during the WNCW Music Mix, the station incorporates blues, bluegrass, Celtic, jazz, reggae and world music among Americana artists and some rock musicians. WNCW's tower is located on Clingman's Peak of Mt. Mitchell, the highest point east of the Mississippi. Translators that expand the listening area are located in Boone, NC at 92.9; Greenville, SC at 97.3; and Charlotte, NC at 100.3. Building permits are approved for translators in Asheville, NC and Knoxville, TN. This public radio station is already in line with the Blue Ridge National Heritage Area's efforts to preserve and celebrate traditional music sounds. Through a partnership with the Blue Ridge National Heritage Area, WNCW indicates its willingness to continue to provide programming that meets WNCW's organizational goal to create an identity as an authority on the indigenous music of the Appalachian region, both recorded and live. All programming decisions made at WNCW are determined by the programming department with oversight from the Community Advisory Board; by becoming involved with the BRNHA, the BRNHA recognizes that WNCW's participation does not allow for any kind of outside influence or pressure on programming decisions.
--------------------	---

Goal:	Celebrate the traditional music of the area by providing continued programming in the area of indigenous music of the Appalachian region, work toward the preservation of traditional music both recorded and live, and continue to perform responsibilities as a public radio station in Western North Carolina broadcasting from Rutherford county by serving as a dissemination point for news, arts and information about the region the station serves.

Project Narrative:	Rutherford County has artists of national and regional renown. To preserve and celebrate the diverse talents of painters, sculptors, potters, ceramicists, and other visual artists, the public is to have opportunity to visit the artists in their own studios, to learn about their art and have opportunity to purchase arts. The first Rutherford County Artist Tour, an event anticipated to be an annual event, is planned for May 5-6, 2006. The tour will be a cooperative effort of artists and Isothermal Community College which is helping to coordinate the event. The artists studio tour will be a weekend event. Friday night a reception will be held at Isothermal Community College's Foundation. The public will be able to meet the artists and view 1-2 of their creations. Tour participants may pick up a brochure with detailed directions and basic information about each artist. Brochures for the self guided tour will be available at other information points such as lodging, location, airport, visitor's centers and restaurants. Initiative Title: Craft Cooperative and Marketplace

Project Narrative:	Rutherford County has a tradition of handmade objects both functional and works of crafts including hand weaving, pottery, woodworking, basket making, rug making, quilting and other needlework. These have been documented in the County for more than 200 years. To this day, white clay is dug in Rutherford and supplies traditional potters here and in Lincoln and Catawba County as well. In the past, more than 100 artisans and crafts people have joined together in a facility related effort exhibiting their work, sharing the cost of operating a gallery and marketing their work. Now, an opportunity exists to form a non-profit Arts and Crafts Cooperative and a Marketplace. The purpose of this will be to provide a location for local arts and crafts to be sold and a place where a wide range of classes and seminars designed to preserve the tradition of locally made arts and crafts may be scheduled year round. Persons interested in becoming selling members of the cooperative may become eligible to display their works in the Marketplace after a jury process. Presently, there is very limited opportunity for artisans to exhibit work or space to teach classes. Rutherford County is one of the Southern Highland Craft Guild's 85 counties found in 13 states. A number of members of this organization make their home in the County. In addition, Chimney Rock village was a charter HandMade in America community and has served as a model to other regions of the state and nation. Many Rutherford County artisans are either listed in the HandMade publications or have a close relationship with the organization.

Initiative Title:	KidSenses Children’s InterACTIVE Museum
-------------------	---

Project Narrative:	KidSenses Children’s InterACTIVE Museum is located in downtown Rutherfordton, North Carolina. It is dedicated to interactive learning enhancing classroom education with hands-on fun. The Museum seeks to provide an environment where children and adults are given a unique opportunity to play, learn and create together. By exposing children to a wide array of experiences in the area of arts, science, technology, culture and history, KidSenses seeks to instill in children a greater understanding of themselves and their world. KidSenses is the first project of its kind in this region of Western North Carolina. The Museum opened its doors to the public in early 2004. Incorporated in 1999, the 11,000 square foot hands-on Museum is a community-supported, child-centered educational resource for children to age 10, families, and child care organizations. It features twelve large interactive exhibits in art, science, math, technology, health, communications, culture, and history. The Museum collaborates with area school systems, universities and community colleges to develop and implement in-house and outreach education programs. These are designed according to the Standard Course of Study of the North Carolina education curriculum guidelines. The Museum is an active member of the Association of Childrens’ Museum (ACM). It is governed by a 16 member Board of Directors including two members presenting Polk County, two from Cleveland, two from Rutherford and an 8-member Advisory Board. KidSenses is managed by Executive Director Stephen Saucier, M. Ed. and currently employees nine persons.

Initiative Title:	Support for realizeRutherford County Mapping Project
-------------------	---

Project Narrative:	As part of the Rutherford County strategic plan, realizeRutherford, an interactive map of the county to showcase key economic growth and developments is to be developed. The map will be an interactive map online with multiple layers to illustrate a variety of information. One layer of the proposed map is to include information on historic features, community centers, and topography. When all map data is collected, RealizeRutherford proposes to employ an engineer to develop a finished map product. In conjunction with this project, the Heritage Council has collected data and is developing a map identifying historical markers, sites listed on the National Register of Historic Places, sites of historical and cultural significance, trails, historic homes and churches. A physical map is being marked but the project will be completed in cooperative the Rutherford County GIS department. In addition the Arts, Parks and Recreation Commission has completed mapping of known trails, outdoor recreation areas and parks.

Initiative Title:	Development of Genealogical Resources
-------------------	---------------------------------------

Project Narrative:	The Genealogical Society of Old Tryon County is a nonprofit, membership-based organization and is currently located on the 3rd floor of a town-owned building in Forest City. The Town is planning to sell the building and a new home must be found for the Society that is handicapped accessible, climate-controlled and preferably closer to the county courthouse for deed searches. The valuable collection has been described by the North Carolina Division of History and Archives as the largest Private collection of genealogical and historical information west of Raleigh. The libraries holdings are not digitized, however, some materials are on microfilm. The library collection includes an extensive collection of land grants, census records for Rutherford and other counties that were Tryon County, marriage records, a variety of other historically significant records and books, as well as the private papers of several local records of distinction. Currently, genealogical resources are also housed in the Old Tryon Room at Isothermal Community College and the Rutherford County Public Library. This means that visitors doing research must go to four different sites in the county to conduct the research and two of the four sites do not have weekend hours when the demand is the highest. A fifth genealogical resource also exists in the county – the Mamie Etta Fine Arts Museum and Historical Society. This new facility is located in the historically African-American neighborhood of Forest City and has an extensive pan-African collection as well as resources on African-American families of the area. This facility will remain in private hands, however, a good deal of collaboration is possible between the two major repositories of family histories in the county.

Initiative Title:	Gold: Bechtler Mint/Mine Site and Bechtler Home Development
-------------------	---

Project Narrative:	The Bechtler Mint/Mine Site is located on Highway 221 North and the Bechtler Home is located on 6th Street in the Town of Rutherfordton. Both are significant in the history of Rutherford County and are integral parts of the history of gold in this region. This is one of several significant stories or regional and national significance to be told in the Heritage Center. In addition, a stand alone initiative/project will be developed as described here. Rutherford County presently owns the original three-acre site of the mine location. This initiative also will be developed in conjunction with the Town of Rutherfordton's revitalization and thematic branding project. It too will become a part of a larger regional project with the theme of mining, gold and minerals in the Blue Ridge National Historic Area.
--------------------	---

Goal:	The project goal is to have the ability to tell this significant story and show artifacts relating to the Bechtler Mint and its history. Through the development of the two original Bechtler sites. As a part of a comprehensive county Heritage Center/Museum, an extensive exhibit highlighting this historical contribution will be developed. The purpose of the exhibit is to show the creativity, artistry, and economic impact the Bechtler family and the mint they established and operated in Rutherford County had on the region and nation.

Initiative Title: The Gold Heritage and Thermal City Gold Mine

Project Narrative:	Thermal City gold mine is a recreation gold mine, campground and mining supply store located on Hwy 221. The facility straddles the Rutherford and McDowell County line. The facility includes 100 acres in Rutherford and 30 acres in McDowell. It also offers a gem mining experience. Incorporated into the Gem Mine facility is a collection of rocks, gems and mineral specimens from North Carolina and around the world. The primary focus of the facility is gold mining since the location is one of the earliest gold mines in the area. Visitors have opportunity to pan for gold and also mine for gold using methods that are more complicated. Clientele travel from all over the United States and Canada to visit Thermal City. Visitors have also come from Japan, England, Germany and Australia. Regular customers visit for extended times every year from Ontario and Quebec, from Washington State, New Mexico, Maine, Florida, Texas and other areas. In an average year, the Thermal City Gold Mine had well over 1,000 visitors who stayed in the area for at least two nights. Some even stay for two or three months. Continuing expansion is the main goal at Thermal City Gold Mine. The Mine has a small collection of antique mining equipment that can be developed into a mining museum. Last year, we purchased adjoining property, which includes the site of the old Thermal City Train Depot and water tank on the now defunct Southern Railway. Adjacent to the depot was a twenty-eight-room hotel. The goal is to reconstruct a facsimile of the Depot to house the mining museum, railroad memorabilia and artifacts. Rebuilding the hotel is also in the longer-range plan. Another goal is to develop a site for festivals and outdoor shows such as the Western North Carolina Gold Festival, which has successfully been held for several years in McDowell County. This area would consist of an open grassy area with water and electrical hook-ups to accommodate vendors plus adequate rest room facilities. A parking area of about one-acre would be needed. The Thermal City Gold Mine is totally dedicated to preserving the gold and gem mining heritage of the Blue Ridge National Heritage area and to the continued successful operation of this operation.

Initiative Title:	South Mountains Area Accessibility

Project Narrative:	A large portion of South Mountain gamelands is located in Rutherford County. The South Mountains State Park is in Burke County and is contiguous with the gamelands. The two tracts combine to form about 40,000 acres of state-owned land. The park has 80-foot waterfall; more than 40 miles of hiking trails, including 29 miles of bridle trails and 18-mile bicycling trail; 11 tent campsites, 20 backpack campsites, four group backpack campsites, 15 equestrian campsites with 37-stall barn. Stream fishing and picnic shelter. It is crucial that these amenities be made more accessible from the Rutherford County side. The gamelands have numerous trails and natural and historic features, but are not used often or visited because of difficult access. The issues include: 1) Southern portion of the park has no direct entryway - no access from Rutherford County 2) Approximately 1-hour drive from Rutherfordton to main park entrance. 3) The State Park is expanding to the west and will have a new access from U.S. 64 which will help. 4) The gamelands have no published maps and access is limited to walking/hiking in most areas. Rutherford County would benefit greatly from the opening of two multi-use corridors on the gamelands from Roper Hollow Road in McDowell County east and the Old CC road north from Golden Valley in Rutherford County. The Roper Hollow access is being improved by the Wildlife Commission, but at a slow pace because of budget and staffing limitations. The Old CC route is not being improved because of a private in-holding at the northern terminus of the road where it intersects with Roper Hollow. The Old CC road needs extensive re-grading and graveling to be usable a multi-use corridor.

Initiative Title: Gilbert Town Preservation

Project Narrative :	The American Revolution in Rutherford County began with a conflict with the Cherokees which had been encouraged by the British government. Some settlers were massacred and local forts were besieged. In response, General Griffith Rutherford collected some 2,400 militia out of Rutherford and other counties in the fall of 1776 and marched against the Cherokees, destroying 36 of their towns. This campaign was hence afterward called the “Rutherford Trace.” In 1780 occurred the next major local involvement of the Revolutionary War. It is now referred to as the Overmountain Victory March. Rutherford County’s first county seat, Gilbert Town, had the distinction of being the only site in this campaign where both the Loyalists and Patriot forces encamped. The British were bivouacked there for several weeks. The Overmountain Men camped there on their way to and from the Battle of Kings Mountain. In early 1781, following their brilliant victory at the Battle of Cowpens, the Patriot troops came to Gilbert Town to tend the wounded and confine their prisoners. What distinguished Gilbert Town’s role in the history of the Southern Campaign of the American Revolution is the exceptionally large number of troops who passed through it. In addition, to the thousands of soldiers there were included a number of striking, notable Revolutionary figures among whom were John Sevier, Isaac Shelby, Daniel Morgan, William Washington, Francis Marion, Andrew Pickens, Patrick Ferguson, Banastre Tarleton, Griffith Rutherford, Benjamin Cleveland and Felix Walker. The preservation of the Gilbert Town is important to the history and heritage of Rutherford County, the BRNHA, North Carolina and the United States as a whole. Its significance in the Revolutionary War is without question. Action steps will be taken to preserve, protect and interpret this important site.

Initiative Title: Agricultural Service Center with Multi-Purpose Arena

Project Narrative:	Description The Rutherford County Agricultural Service Center & Multi-Purpose Arena consists of two structures with a shared parking and loading area. The proposed location is the 7.5-acre tract of land, located within the town of Spindale, NC, adjacent to existing county office building. Other sites may be considered as well. In partnership, the Agricultural Service Center proposes to house the county offices of the North Carolina Cooperative Extension Service (NCCES), Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS), Farm Service Agency (FSA) and Rutherford Soil and Water Conservation District. Justification and Rationale The local Center for the North Carolina Cooperative Extension Service currently uses space within the building that houses the Senior Center. Senior Center activities limit the available times for educational programming and impact customer service. NRCS, FSA, and the Soil and Water District currently lease a small office structure, which is a converted steel frame structure that is limited in available space. The proposed Agriculture Service Center would put all four agricultural agencies within the same building. Also, FSA, NRCS and Soil and Water are rent paying agencies and would pay rent to Rutherford County when relocated to the centralized Agricultural Service Center. If the Center is built in the proposed location, the Multi-Purpose Arena will become the new home of the Rutherford County Farmer’s Market . This will make the Marekt more accessible to customers and permit expansion as needed. The Farmer’s Market is currently housed in an old structure that is in dire need of renovations and the site on which currently is located could be of greater value to county government for other uses. The Multi-Purpose Arena will be used to hold agricultural related events and activities, such as livestock shows and sales, and larger educational programs sponsored by the four agencies housed in the Ag Center. At present, no facility, either public or private, exists in the County for such activities. The Arena also may be used by other county departments and rented to other groups or organizations for other activities. Expected Results An Ag Center and an Arena will greatly improved customer service to the agriculture and related industries and provide for expansion of services to the residents of

	Rutherford County. Many customers currently use the services of at least two, if not all four of these agencies. There currently is no facility in the county like the proposed Multi-Purpose Arena. 4-H, and other groups or individuals scheduling events, activities, or educational programs related to animals are forced to use local facilities not well suited for livestock related functions or go to facilities outside the County. Rutherford County agriculture brings in over $13,000,000 (13 million) in cash receipts. The county ranks 22, out of 100 counties, in North Carolina with over 7,300 breed cows. It also ranks in the top 15 counties for total hay production. The county had over 61,000 acres of farmland and has a very diverse mix of vegetables, field crops, and horticultural products being produced. Over 1,600 individual landowners own forested property greater than 25 acres. In 1996, the last year an equine study was completed in North Carolina, Rutherford County had 1,900 equine with an inventory value of $4,887,000. This number of persons relocating to the county who are part of the equestrian community is on the rise as the spill-over from neighboring Polk County which in 1996 had 1,500 equine valued at $11,008,000. continues. With this growth has occurred an increase in related agricultural related commodities such as the growth and sales of hay and feed. Need for Federal Assistance Financial assistance from a variety of funding sources will be made to help offset the high cost of building and land. The region has largely been dependent on textile manufacturing, which has been hard hit in Rutherford County. Rutherford County lost over 5,383 jobs since 1998. Projects such as this will assist farmers who work in agriculture in both a full or part-time nature. This type of assistance is critical as the county transitions to a more diverse economy. The growing equine industry is another example of the need to provide an arena in the area. In 1996 in the state, there were 132,000 head of equine found in 26,300 places with an average of five horses per operation. The total value of horses in North Carolina in 1996 owned for recreational and commercial purposes was estimated at $533 million dollars horse owners also spent approximately $500 million to care for their animals and to participate in equine activities. By the year 2002, the projected value of North Carolina's equine population had rises to more than $900 million with the total industry valued at nearly $1.7 billion. The Equine Study Survey conducted in 1996 by the Equine Industry Commission established a multiplier of 1.61 to local economies for every dollar spent on horses and horse related activities.

Initiative Title: Growing For You

Project Narrative: “Growing For You” Project is a new, collaborative effort involving a multi-discipline N.C. Cooperative Extension Service Team composed of Agriculture and Family Consumer Education Agents from six counties consisting of Buncombe, Cleveland, Lincoln, McDowell, Polk and Rutherford. This education program's goal is the development and maintenance of regional communication in the promotion of the benefits of the local agriculture industry to the region's consumers (residents & tourists).

The “Growing For You” Project encompasses four areas that will assist in the farm-to-table process: 1) Product Development & Utilization, 2) Food Safety, 3) Agricultural Focus, and 4) Youth Education. The Product Development & Utilization segment is concentrating on networking with the local and regional chefs in the preparation of locally-grown commodities, highlighting as well the value-added local products, and assisting with learning how to prepare fresh products. The Food Safety segment deals with providing a forum for addressing biotechnology/genetically-engineered commodities, organics, and pesticide residue issues. The segment focuses on safe food handling from farm to home. The Agricultural Focus segment is working on the development of grower networks in the sharing of production techniques: sustainable, organic, and conventional agricultural systems management. It is looking at the historic & cultural trends of agriculture within the region. The Youth Education segment is dealing with expanding the agricultural awareness to children and helping them understand where their food originates, how long it takes to produce the foods they eat, and how the raw product is made into the materials they consume.

Goal: At the focus of the program are the 369,000 residents within the six-county region. The Extension Team will be networking as well with the Tourism Industry as potential secondary audience. (During 1997, travel spending within the Buncombe, McDowell, Polk and Rutherford county area was $493 million).

The NC Cooperative Extension Service Team anticipates three major outcomes from the “Growing For You” Project: 1) Increased farm visibility and economic growth of the agricultural industry, 2) Increased consumer food safety practices and utilization of locally grown commodities, and 3) Increased consumer knowledge of agricultural production techniques as they pertain to biotechnology.

Initiative Title:	Rutherfordton - Comprehensive Master Plan
-------------------	---

Project Narrative:	The Town of Rutherfordton has a unique opportunity to continue the revitalization of its downtown through a comprehensive set of improvements to its core downtown and Main Street area. These improvements to the public realm can yield not only a more beautiful and useful downtown, but corresponding, private development stimulated by this initiative. The Town of Rutherfordton’s commitment to a Master Plan demonstrates a serious commitment to ensuring the continued vitality of its downtown well into the 21st century. The resolution of current and future infrastructure demands (traffic flow and parking), combined with the design and completion of streetscape and public space enhancements will create an appropriate and exciting setting for the town and its rich historic district. Also, it will create an attractive environment for cultivating private development interest and investment in downtown Rutherfordton.

Initiative Title: Spindale Revitalization –A Visionary Plan – Stage 1

Project Narrative:	The Town of Spindale has a long history of hard working people with a sense of community centered on the Spindale House, a much-loved library and a thriving retail district including the local pharmacy. However, the town has felt the economic impact of the nationwide closing of textile plants. The town’s tax base has been textile driven; however, with the closing of five major textile manufactures the town’s economic base has been devastated. In 2003, Spindale tax base decreased by 6% and in 2004 another 6% decrease. Town officials have expressed concerns that if the Town’s tax base continues to decline, tax revenues will also and the Town will not be able to main vital services it provides to residents. The 3,900 residents of Spindale have a median household income of $26, 205 and are among the 9.5 % (October 2004) unemployed persons in the County. The County’s unemployment has exceeded by 70% the national rate and is the third highest unemployment rate in the state. Town residents cannot afford a tax increase and Spindale is seeking new strategies to enhance economy and revitalize the Town. The two primary components of plan developed by Town Councilman Toby Tomlin in cooperation town officials and government are to redevelop through a private/public partnership the old mill sites in the downtown area into condominiums and to develop an 18 hole golf course on the present industrial park site located on Ledbetter Road. Grant funding will be requested to fund many of the projects. In addition, the anticipated influx of new residents can bring small industry and small business and entrepreneurs into the community. The first step in the plan has occurred with the allocation of a $25,000 planning grant from the NC Rural Center to conduct a feasibility study.
Goal:	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Make Spindale a more desirable place to live • Make Spindale more attractive to business and industry • Offer residents the same amenities that larger cities offer • Maintain a small town atmosphere with a sense of community • Establish Spindale as a pilot program to test new economic development strategies • Reinvigorate the town’s tax base through new development, business, and industry

Initiative Title: Downtown Forest City 20/20 Vision

Project Narrative:	Forest City was named by the US Department of Agriculture as one of the best planned and most beautiful small towns in the United States in 1927 as part of the City Beautiful Movement. The designation was primarily awarded because of the layout and beautification of the Town Square funded by the Forest City Betterment Club in 1917. Another factor was the presence of a large downtown Cotton Mill that did not impede on the beauty of Main Street. As Forest City's downtown moves toward development of a 2020 Vision Plan, the goal is to continue the legacy set by the 1927 designation as one of the best planned and most beautiful small towns in America.
--------------------	--

Goal:	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Distinguish Forest City within the region as a small town known for its unique downtown setting including the dynamic Florence Mill renovation. 2. Foster the rich heritage of downtown Forest City's built environment and let the architecture tell the story of the town's history. 3. Work toward the designation as a Great American Main Street Town by the National Trust for Historic Preservation and the designation of an All-America City by 2010. 4. Work toward the designation as an All-America City by the National Civic League Municipalities by 2020.

Initiative Title: Vance Academy- Preservation for Present & Future Generations

Project Narrative:	The Vance Academy, a one-room schoolhouse built in the late 1800's has a well built wooden frame and is 25X 35 feet in area and 28 feet high. The flooring, sides and rafters are pine and the sills are Western mountain hemlock. The schoolhouse is located slightly south of the Harris Community in Rutherford County on what was the farm of Isaac Miller who was a good friend of NC Governor Zebulon Vance. In school records from July 1899 when A.L Rucker was the first Superintendent of Education and the Board of Trustees were W.P. Kistler, D.H. Jenkins and A.B. Webster, Vance Academy which was in the Sulphur Springs school district received $154.32 for expenses. Other records indicate that on October 2, 1899, the value of the school was $50. The school had one teacher who boarded in one of the pupil's homes and 45 males and 37 students were enrolled. Surnames of the students include Alexander, Crawford, Duncan, Fowler, Harris, Henson, Huntsinger, Jenkins, McCraw, McDowell, McKinney, Miller, Padgett, Robbins, and Tate. (excerpts from Bicentennial History for Rutherford County People, 1979 and copied by Edith Roby Edwards, wife of W. Henry Edwards, May 2005) In order to preserve the building, in 1989, the W. Henry Edwards family whose ancestors were students at Vance Academy in the late 1800's, acquired permission from the owner of the land where the facility stood to move the building to their farm on Duncan Road in the Harris Community of Rutherford County, 1 ½ miles west of the Academy's original location on Jack McKinnery Road south of the Harris Community. The move was not an overnight job? It required much measuring, planning, and raising done by many helpers to ready the building onto a long trailer. The weather cooperated a sunny, May 15, 1998 when 48 people came together including the utility companies: Duke Power, Bell South, Northland Cable-TV, the Sheriff's Traffic Control, WLOS-TV, the newspaper folk – Daily Courier, friends, neighbors and individuals with cameras. The Academy is now situated on the Henry and Edith Edwards farm property directly in front of their home on Duncan Road. Western North Carolina stone masons were used to construct stone piers for the structure to rest upon. The original black board is still visible and the family plan to cover this with clear class so that it may be viewed.
--------------------	---

	The farmland on which the Henry and Edith Edwards live was a land grant from the King of England, July 1794. Generations of Edwards have lived on the land. The Edwards are also known for their use of kudzu. Mr. Edwards uses it as feed for his cattle and Mrs. Edward's is well known as the Kudzu Lady. She uses kudzu to make jelly, and other edible treats and the kudzu vine to make a variety of items including baskets and hats. The Edwards propose to utilize a portion of the building for their on-going project of researching uses of the kudzu plant. As the Edwards have said " relatives, neighbors, friends will continue to help restore this antique treasure. Love and sweat will be involved and folks will reminiscence. It is a Rutherford County heritage project for all to enjoy."

Goal:	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. To preserve the authenticity of the Vance Academy 2. To utilize a portion of the facility for the on-going project of researching uses of the kudzu plant. 3. To provide people with an opportunity to reminiscence and relish the history of this era. 4. Initiative Title: Community Character: Pride in Place

Project Narrative:	Flash back a time in rural Rutherford County prior to the 1960s and one would see vibrant, robust small communities that centered around the public school, general store, post office, or small shopping areas. Fast-forward to 2005 and many of these small communities have lost their anchors and centers – the schools and post offices have consolidated and the general store and small shops have closed. In Rutherford County, 75% of the residents live outside the population base of the three towns of Forest City, Spindale and Rutherfordton. In these more rural areas, residents proudly display their community’s name as you enter and there is a sense of pride that comes with living there. These rural residents live in communities with names like – Henrietta, Caroleen, Ruth, Ellenboro, Bostic, Shiloh, Harris, Cliffside, Hollis, Camp Creek, Golden Valley, Westminster, and many more. Some communities like Washburn’s Store have been placed on the National Register of Historic Places by their residents. Some are starting history societies like Golden Valley and Cliffside. Some are renovating their former public school into hubs of their communities once again. A number of these small communities have historic sites that visitors to the county would want to visit such as Washburn’s Store, Abraham Lincoln’s Bostic birthplace, the first NC monument to WWI veterans in Hollis, the Ellenboro Fiddler’s Convention, and the Golden Valley Music Park.
--------------------	---

Goal:	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. to provide a climate for collaboration among the communities and community-based centers in the county on fundraising and grant opportunities to expand their community centers and their assets that might interest visitors. 2. to develop, implement and promote family and visitor activities in the rural communities of Rutherford County.

Initiative Title: Union Mills Learning Center, Inc.

Project Narrative:	Union Mills Learning Center, Inc. is one of several Community Based Centers in Rutherford County which were former schools Union Mills, Gilkey, Green Hill, Dunbar and been provided at a nominal charge to communities to encourage “community pride” and continuing education. Also included is KidSenses, an interactive children’s museum located in Rutherfordton. Each is available for extended programs in each community and each has a designated program director to coordinate the Center’s activities. The Union Mills Learning Center, Inc. has a long, rich history of education. Founded in 1899 as Round Hill Academy, it was the only accredited school in the area. The graduating students were accepted at colleges and became ministers, doctors, teachers, bankers and leaders of industry and businesses, developing our towns in Rutherford County and influencing education across North Carolina. Ninety percent of the teachers in Rutherford County attended Round Hill Academy. In 1925, the school became Alexander Schools, Inc. and served as an orphanage, boarding school, home for troubled children and day students. Children were brought from all over the Eastern United States. The school closed in 1976 but has 800 alumni scattered all over the world. Those who can return each year for their annual tow-day reunion held the second Saturday and Sunday in August. From 1976 to 2000, the school served as an elementary and middle school and completed 200 years of education and in 2000 the school building, gym and 6.4 acres were given to the Union Mills Learning Center, Inc., a 501-(C) 3 non-profit organization. The buildings and grounds are being upgraded and education in music, dance, computer, history, and recreation, as well as, GED and after-school tutoring are available to all citizens. The auditorium is to be utilized by the community to demonstrate skills learned, for dance recitals, special meetings and gatherings including performances by local musicians and artisans. Currently a cadre of Center volunteers hands calls and conduct tours from both inside North Carolina and out-of-state as well. Plans are being developed to collect memorabilia, and artifacts donated both by school alumni and the community for a permanent display and an oral history program is planned. The Union Mills Community has a wealth of historical sites including <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Home Britton Presbyterian Church • Westminster Boarding Academy 1902-1925, associated with Round Hill Baptist Church • Alexander Schools, Ins 1925-1976 • Flack Farm – home build 1889 – 300 acres, owned by 7th generation family Nell and Tim Bovender is in conservation easement • Weaver Farm first owned by H.G. Initiative Title: Cohesive Signage and Beautification Commission Establishment

Project Narrative:	Part I: Signage Rutherford County has historical and cultural heritage sites, as well as trails, linear water trails that need designation through an overall cohesive system of signage. The signage will meet the needs of visitors, tourists or local residents by providing both information and directions. Signage will include identification of specific amenities, directions to nearby facilities, information handicap accessibility, and interpretive exhibits at historic sites or points of special interest. A plan for the overall cohesive signage system with design guidelines to appropriately integrate signage into the environment and enhance and not detract from the areas scenic beauty. Signage guidelines will adhere to state, county and local requirements and to design and signage placement guidelines to be developed. Part II: Beautification Commission It is recommended that a Rutherford County Beautification Commission be established by the Board of County Commissioners. This voluntary Commission is to be made up of designees from garden clubs, civic clubs and other county groups committed to the beautification of the County. It will work with communities, SWEEP and other county groups to assist in clean-up efforts, to develop education and awareness campaigns on beautification as well as to develop guidelines for signage and beautification that may be voluntarily adopted for any gateway or entryway into the County or a community. The Beautification Commission will: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> Partner with garden clubs and civic groups to upgrade/beautify community gateways/entrances throughout the county. Blue Ridge National Heritage Area RUTHERFORD COUNTY INITIATIVE WORKSHEET

Initiative Title: Cyber-Tourism

Project Narrative:	Tourism is a significant industry in the North Carolina. In 2004 the tourism industry generated 13.2 billion dollar in revenue and was responsible for 183,000 direct jobs statewide. Tourism was the 3rd largest private sector employer in the state in 2003. While the mountain region of the state received 2,900 million dollars in tourism revenues or only 16% of the state tourism revenue in 2004, it reported 38,336 people working in the industry. The Blue Ridge National Heritage Area is a wonderful opportunity for the western counties to increase the economic impact of the tourist industry in the region. The designation is the first such in NC and is one of only 26 in the Nation. Through the joint efforts of the Rutherford County Heritage Council, the Blue Ridge National Heritage Council, Realize Rutherford and private and public partners across the county, region and state, the goal is to utilize cyber-tourism and e-commerce to help increase tourism in Rutherford and other western NC counties for positive economic benefit. Increasingly, when anyone plans to on travel to a destination or vacation in an area, his or her first makes a stop on the web. According to leading marketing expert, Peter Yesawich who spoke at the 2005 NC Governor's Conference, 80% of all homes in the US have Internet access and 93% of the population will travel this year. Some 56% in 2004 used the Internet to schedule a trip. Moreover, in 2005, 93% of the US population will travel this year for leisure and 71% will spend more. Cyber-tourism can help Rutherford County gain maximum economic benefit from these travelers. The purpose of the cyber-tourism initiative is to fully develop the potential for heritage tourism in Rutherford County by using all available components of cyber-tourism. This project aim is to generate the "best" web pages to visualize a "space." Towns, communities, historical sites, performance venues, artisans, craftsmen and parks and recreation opportunity and private and public organizations that promote the history, heritage, natural resources in the county. These will be encouraged to develop full web potential. Different kinds of displays will be provided so that viewers can easily obtain the information they seek and can visually perceive the desirability of visiting the area themselves can be organized in a hierarchy so as to realize retrievals at different demanded resolutions. These entities will be encouraged to utilize the free web page design available through the Realize Rutherford initiative RutherfordInfo.com, to list tourism, recreational, and other events, tours, etc. on the Rutherford County Tourism Development Authority site and NC Department of Commerce Division of Travel, Tourism, Film Sports Development free web site, agricultural related on the NC Department of Agriculture, artisans and art events listed on the Department of

	Cultural Resources site and that when appropriate listed on all other sites. In addition, the state designation of Rutherford County as an e-commerce community will prove beneficial in this endeavor as the business and technology center is established providing training and computer access. Developing heritage tourism "visitor prepared sites" and featuring them in quality web pages and tourism sites such as rutherfordinfo.com, rutherfordtourism.com or VisitNC.com is important to Rutherford County's economy. In 2004, the NC Department of Commerce, Division of Travel, Tourism, Film and Sports Development web site, VisitNC.com had a new look and easy access that is interest based. The results are it received 46% more visits last year and 51% of these visits resulted in specific inquiries. This is what cyber-tourism is all about and what it can do for Rutherford County.

Goal:	To provide maximum benefit to efforts to enhance heritage tourism in Rutherford County.

RUTHERFORD COUNTY INITIATIVE WORKSHEET

Initiative Title: Supporting Culture – Cultural, Heritage, Natural Resources, and Recreation

Project Narrative:	Rutherford County is well known for establishing coalitions that bring non-profit and public agencies together around issues of mutual interest, such as housing, child welfare, education, and visioning. Through the efforts of the Rutherford County Arts, Parks and Recreation Commission, a Rutherford County Outdoor Coalition has been formed. The arts groups participating in the Arts, Parks, and Recreation Commission have also decided to form a Cultural Coalition. In developing the Blue Ridge Heritage Plan, the Heritage Council is recommending forming a third coalition around history and heritage. It is clear that some of the initiatives such as the Heritage Center will take the efforts of all the heritage-oriented organizations working together to accomplish. Each Coalition, will serve as an umbrella organization to promote the three broad areas of culture, heritage and natural resources and recreation. The Coalition will also work to advise the county government on matters concerning these three areas. In addition, there may be opportunities for all three coalitions to work together for the betterment of the county. Cultural Coalition: The Culture Coalition is to encompass the areas of visual and performing arts; theater, literary pursuits and organizations and citizens who are involved in the promotion and preservation of their creative genre, as well as performance and other venues at which cultural events and endeavors are offered. . At the present time Rutherford County has several organizations devoted to visual and performing arts, theater and literary groups, and organizations preserving and promoting art, music, culture, and traditions. Several other organizations provide venues for performances and displays. In addition, as part of the Blue Ridge National Heritage Plan for the County, three amphitheaters are to be developed. In order to provide a coordinated effort, a non-profit Rutherford Cultural Coalition will provide a cohesive umbrella organization that embraces, promotes and celebrates the economic impact these activities provide and the contributions they make to the quality quality of life in Rutherford County. Heritage Coalition: The Heritage Coalition will function as the umbrella organization for groups, clubs, organization and residents involved in the promotion and preservation of Rutherford County’s heritage. Representation will be broad based and include representatives from the Rutherford County Historical Society, MaimyEtta Black Fine Arts Museum and Genealogical Society, The Genealogical Society of Old Tryon County, Colonial, Dames, The Daughters of the American Revolution, Sons of the Confederacy, Forest

Initiative Title: Unified System of Trails –County & Regional

Project Narrative:	Rutherford County has many existing and proposed trails and natural areas that can effectively be developed into a unified countywide system. This system will provide increased recreational opportunities for residents and serve to increase tourism in the County. The system will be developed to enhance the proposed Hickory Nut Gorge State Park at the northwest corner of the County, the proposed improved access to South Mountain State Park on the northwestern corner, and enhanced non-motorized trail access to South Mountain through the Rollins Track, a game land. Rutherford County already has a developed portion of Rails to Trails, 18 miles of the Overmountain Victory National Historic Trail some of which is certified, horse trails, stagecoach routes, bike routes, the Rocky Broad Riverwalk in Chimney Rock, the Lake Lure walkway and numerous other waterways and greenways that can be tied together to create a system of trails that traverse the entire county. Other projects already underway or proposed which will positively impact the establishment of a unified system include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The Rutherford Outdoor Coalition has designated and publicized a series of eight bike trails in the county and has now proposed a series of paddle trails on the Broad River that can be tied in to the existing Broad River Greenway in Cleveland County and with proposed trails on the Green River in Polk County. • The Town of Rutherfordton has proposed the development of a greenway connecting Rails to Trails and the OVT through town and on to its Crestview Park, • Spindale has developed a revitalization plan to include a golf course and varied golf cart friendly routes and Forest City with several green park areas is planning how to connect these to other exiting trails. • Forest City is proposing to extend the Rails to Trails into town and especially to tie in with the Florence Mill facility which will house a museum and artifacts celebrating the industrialization of the County including both textiles and the railroads. • Ellenboro is working to revitalize it’s depot located on the rail line. • A non-profit group is forming to preserve the birthplace of Abraham Lincoln on Puzzle Creek near Bostic which was a railroad hub. • The County owns various pieces of recreational property through out the county, which could be utilized as green space. This land is in addition to five community centers, former public schools that have been provided to communities for various activities including recreation. • Rutherfordton proposes to work in partnership with Polk County to extend certification of the OVT trail to Alexander’s Ford on the Green River, the location of a proposed arts and crafts school which will be located less about five miles from Rutherfordton and 10 miles from Forest City. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Cliffside owners propose revitalization of the former mill property on the Second Broad River. • Duke Power’s purchase of property on the Broad as the potential site for another steam plant. • Rivers suitable for paddle trails and blueways including the Broad, and others. • Chimney Rock Village plans to extend the Rocky Broad RiverWalk. • Lake Lure is in the process of implementing the Town Center Walkway that includes a greenway, pedestrian and bicycle paths, as well as connection with existing walking trails in the area. Rutherford County presently does not have a Recreation Department. However, the Arts, Parks and Recreation Commission was appointed by County Commissioner to survey existing recreational, cultural and tourism related opportunities in the county. This Commission with the assistance of Isothermal Planning and Development Commission has completed a Recreation Plan to be presented Commissioners in its entirety in the coming months. Therefore the Rutherford County Planning Director has scheduled a meeting for county officials, BRNHA Heritage Council members, potential trail partners and others groups and individuals to meet with representatives of the National Park Service to discuss potential assistance with planning a county-wide system. The Heritage Council project is to recommend to Commissioners that an agreement be made between Rutherford County and the National Park Service to develop a plan and provide information and guidance in locating public/private and grant funding to complete projects related to the trails and recreation and preservation of greenspace.

Initiative Title: Overmountain Victory National Historic Trail : County

Project Narrative:	The Overmountain Victory National Historic Trail was authorized by the U.S. Congress in September 1980 and commemorates the campaign that led to the American victory at the Revolutionary War Battle of Kings Mountain in the fall of 1780. Administered by the National Park Service the Trail is established and maintained through a variety of different partnerships. It consists of a Commemorative Motor Route which uses existing state highways, as well as, a non-motorized route. The latter is still being developed but will eventually stretch some 330 miles through four different states. Within North Carolina, there are 204 miles of the Commemorative Motor Route, as well as potentially 201 miles of the non-motorized trail. The trail passes through nine counties in North Carolina, all of which are included in the BRNHA. As of December 2004, 34 miles of the non-motorized route within the state had been established and were publicly accessible. Eighteen miles of the Overmountain Victory Historic Trail traverse Rutherford County. Certified areas of the trail in the county include the Brittain Presbyterian Church Cemetery, one mile of the original trail from Gilbert Town to Hwy. 64 following the present day Rails to Trails pathway, and three miles within the town of Rutherfordton. Some sites along the trail are marked but much opportunity exists for further interpretation and certification.

PRIORITY INITIATIVE WORKSHEET

Initiative Title: Overmountain Victory National Historic Trail – Rutherfordton Segment

Project Narrative:	Overmountain Victory National Historic Trail The Town of Rutherfordton was formed when the Constitution of the United States was just an idea, when Old Fort in McDowell County was the end of the world. In 1789 Patriot militia came through what is now the downtown area while hunting for the British Army. The Overmountain Victory National Trail commemorates the 14-day march of patriot militia across the Appalachians to the Piedmont region of North and South Carolina. By the fall of 1780, Charleston had been captured and with it the majority of the Southern Continental Army. Additional losses at Waxhaw, South Carolina on May 29th, and Camden, South Carolina, on August 16th left the Continental Army with only militia remaining to oppose the British. Victory for the Royal troops and an end to talk of independence seemed near. On September 30th Patriots from Virginia, Tennessee and North Carolina met at McDowell House, Quaker Meadows. From there they headed south to Gilbert Town where the patriots expected to fight the British Army commanded by Major Patrick Ferguson. Ferguson had been warned about the Patriot militia and was not there when they arrived. Both armies shared the same campsite at Gilbert Town. The militia came through Rutherfordton on October 5, 1780 marching down through an area between Green and Southern Streets following the path of Cleghorn Creek. They turned between Court Street and Charlotte Road and headed up towards present day Rutherford Hospital. Two days later the Patriots found Ferguson’s Army on Kings Mountain. There they defeated British troops, setting in motion events that led to the British surrender at Yorktown and the end of the Revolutionary War. To recognize Rutherfordton’s place in the Revolutionary War.

Initiative Title: Trail of the Rutherford Trace in Rutherford County

Project Narrative:	General Griffith Rutherford came to Fort McGaughey in present day Rutherford County in August 1776 to amass troops especially awaiting those who were coming to join his effort from Surry and Guilford County. In late August he marched from Fort McGaughey southwest through Gilbert Town to Fort McFadden amassing more militia from the settlers who were in the forts to protect themselves and their families against Indians. From Fort McFadden the expedition went to Hampton's Fort on to Grant's Fort then Pott's Fort, all located in present day Rutherford County. The expedition then continued ultimately to Cathey's Fort in present day McDowell County. (Source: Powell, North Carolina Gazeteer and C.L. Hunter, Western North Carolina Biographical Sketches). The story of national and regional significance known as the Rutherford Trace is important to Rutherford County's history. This story is one of several to be told in the Heritage Center/Museum. In addition, appropriate supportive materials for citizens and for visitors to the area will be developed.

Initiative Title: Stoneman's Raid Trail

Project Narrative:	In the Civil War campaign known as Stoneman's Raid, Union troops made their way into Rutherford County on two occasions. The first instance involved Civil War General Gillem leading a group of Southern recruits known as "Home Yankees". They had been recruited locally to fight on the Union side. After attempting to cross into Western North Carolina through to Asheville and finding themselves blocked at Swannanoa Gap near present day Old Fort, Gillem proceeded into Rutherford County coming from McDowell coming through Montford's Cove and thorough Nanneytown (near present day Thermal City). The troops probably followed Cathey's Creek down the road today known as Rock Road and arrived in the county seat of Rutherfordton where they burned buildings and "thoroughly trounced" citizens in the area now that is N. Washington Street. They continued on to Polk County following a route (present day Coxe Road) stopping at the Green River Plantation near the Rutherford/Polk County line. At the Plantation horse prints reported to be those of Union soldiers are seen in the parlor flooring. They then made their way up Howard's Gap into Henderson County. On the next day, General Palmer, leading a group of the regular Union troops from Michigan and Pennsylvania, came into present day Rutherford County from Mecklenburg County through Lincoln County following what is known as the old Lincolnton stagecoach route. The route ran from Lincolnton through the Washburn area (Bostic-Sunshine Highway) and into Rutherfordton. It is reported that Palmer and his regular soldiers apologized for the actions against the citizens of Rutherford that had occurred with the "Home Yankees." They continued to Asheville via the Hickory Nut Gorge (present day Hwy 74A).

Initiative Title: Rocky Broad RiverWalk-Chimney Rock Village

Project Narrative:	The 1998 first phase of the Rocky Broad RiverWalk was completed and dedicated only two years after the area was devastated by a flood that not only affected the river and river access, but left structures along the river, roads and even the Chimney Rock Village sewer system damaged. With the assistance of Handmade in America, the NC Department of Parks and Recreation Adopt a Trail program, the assistance of the NC Department of Corrections inmates and of that students from Warren Wilson College, and under the leadership and support of Village residents and the Chimney Rock Village Community Development Association, access to the Rocky Broad from Main Street and a scenic walk along the river was opened to the public. It quickly a favorite place for hikers, walkers, fisherman and tourists. In 2004, as a result of Hurricane Francis, the area was flooded once again. With the assistance of the Federal Emergency Management Administration, matching funds from the Chimney Rock Community Development Association and assistance from Handmade in America, the RiverWalk with Main Street access has been rebuilt and now extends from the downtown area along the river, or in some places along the highway, to a location near the River Park, a picnic park behind the old fire station. The second stage of the RiverWalk remains to be constructed. It will provide access from the River Park on to the proposed Phase Two of the Lake Lure Greenway. This connection will form a single walking route from the center of Chimney Rock to the center of Lake Lure.

Project Narrative:	Lake Lure is a tourist resort community with high numbers of visitors in summer and fall seasons. Memorial Highway, a two-lane road, is the only route through Hickory Nut Gorge and the Town of Lake Lure. Because traffic volume is high and traffic speed is low, many people choose to either walk or bike through this congested area. Visitors and residents currently use the existing .3 mile wooden boardwalk from Morse Park to the Beach and the “town center” and have requested an extension of the pedestrian walk west toward Chimney Rock Village and east to the Lake Lure Post Office. The area also has numerous bicyclists in that Memorial Highway (US 64/74A) is a designated Scenic Byway. While bicycles are not allowed on the boardwalk, speed limits have been reduced to help ensure their safety; but safety for pedestrians and bicyclists along this busy corridor remain a concern. The proposed Lake Lure Town Center Walkway Project will provide a safe, convenient means for both pedestrians and bicyclists to travel through this congested center of Lake Lure. The project will parallel Memorial Highway (US 64/74A) beginning at the intersection with boys Camp Road, running easterly past Morse Park and along the shore of the harbor portion of Lake Lure through the town center to the Lake Lure Post Office. Right of ways or easements will be obtained as required with donations encouraged. The Town owns the remainder of the land adjacent to the highway and paved paths will be routed off the highway around two semi-circular, town-owned wooden areas to be developed as pocket parks with benches and picnic facilities. Appropriate signage, trash receptacles, water fountains and rest areas will be incorporated. McGill Associates of Asheville, NC completed a Master Plan for the Lake Lure Town Center Walkway in June 2002. At that time the total projected project cost was $248,869. The project is to be completed in two phases: Phase I will run from Boys Camp Road to the ABC Store. The pathway will consist of a combination of asphalt and concrete sections which will run along Memorial Highway to the boardwalk, then along the Lake on the boardwalk to the Lake Lure beach house and then on to the ABC Store as an asphalt path along the fence constructed by Lake Lure Tours. Several crossings on the highway will be completed in embossed asphalt having the appearance of terra cotta paving stones. Also included in Phase I are landscaping and several drinking fountains and benches. Lake Lure made application to the Federal Highway Administration to receive Federal Highway Administration transportation enhancement funds under TEA-21, the Transportation Equity Act for the 21st Center. The application was approved NC Board of Transportation. Actual work on the project is awaiting NC Department of

Transportation final review of design standards before I construction is begun.

Phase II will include completion of the Walkway to the Lake Lure Post Office. The project will also eventually run from the Chimney Rock Village limits at Boys Camp Road where it will connect with the proposed extension of the Rocky Broad RiverWalk. In addition, the Town Center Walkway will tie in with existing walking trails in the Lake Lure area including a trail at the town park and a moderately strenuous .8 trail along the shoreline slated to loop around and connect to the Walkway.

The completed Lake Lure Town Center Walkway will provide an alternative transportation system and encourage motorists to park and walk, will provide the benefit of enhanced exercise opportunities, as well as provide safe and convenient pedestrian access to locations within the town center and with neighboring Chimney Rock Village.

|-------|--|
| Goal: | <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Develop an alternative transportation system to encourage motorists to park and walk along the Scenic Byway. 2. Encourage visitors and residents to walk and bicycle for enhanced physical well being. 3. Reduce congestion on a state road along with decreased gasoline consumption and air pollution. 4. Provide safe and convenient pedestrian access to destination points in the heart of the community including historical sites, festival locations at which regional arts and crafts are displayed and sold, retail establishments, a medical center, and local and state government buildings. 5. Provide partnership with the neighboring community of Chimney Rock Village for enhanced economic benefit to both municipalities. |

Cliffside is in a period of transition. In March 2005, Frankie McWhorter met with Mark and Janice Swing, John Fisher, and representatives of the Dark Horse Gallery to ascertain information about Cliffside assets, needs and priorities. Town property has been sold to individuals, the old mill is being demolished and plans are being formulated to re-develop parts of the area. The gallery is now restructuring as well.
