Recycle Your Yard Signs!

Elections may have passed, but don't throw out your campaign yard signs. Instead, Ridwell can help you recycle them responsibly! Ridwell picks up hard to recycle items, such as yard signs, from your doorstep that would otherwise end up in the landfill. To waste less, sign up for Ridwell's service and participate in its featured recycling categories.

Try-out an Induction Cooktop

You are invited to try-out a portable induction cooktop and find out why people are raving about induction cooking.

An induction cooktop is a safe and high performing cooking surface that uses electric induction technology to warm cookware. In comparison to gas cooking, induction cooktops heat up faster, are more energy efficient, create less indoor air pollution, and pose less of a fire risk. Learn more here.

Sign up here to borrow an induction cooktop and compatible pan for up to two weeks. Check out this introductory video and get cooking!

Burlingame Library has a New Bench!

The Library's new bench is made from recycled plastic film collected from the community of Burlingame! The Bay Area Leos Club worked on the project for the past year and successfully collected 3000 pounds of plastic film that would have otherwise ended up in the landfill. The plastic film was taken to Safeway and then sent to TREX, for use in benches and other recycled products. Thank you to the Leos Club for contributing their time to this project and committing to plastic film recycling in Burlingame. Find the recycled plastic bench on the second floor patio deck of the Main Library.

The Leos Club has plastic film collection bins at the Library and City Hall. If the bins are full, please take plastic film bags directly to the collection bin at the entrance to the Burlingame Safeway. Thank you for your help!

Friendly Solar Competition

Cities and businesses around the Bay Area are partnering with Sunshares to offer discounts to their community members. Sunshares is a bulk solar discount program that provides a discount of up to 15% on solar and battery storage. Over 1,000 people in the Bay Area, including 15 in Burlingame, have signed up.

Let's try to double our number and reach 30 Burlingame homes!

In order to reach the goal, residents will need to sign up for a free energy audit, to see if solar and battery storage are right for their homes. The program is purely informational, with no commitment unless you choose to move forward.

Sign-up closes on November 15!

Burlingame City Manager Lisa Goldman, who installed solar on her home through Sunshares, stated, "I didn't realize how simple it could be, and now I love seeing my home's energy generation in the app."

Books Against the Wall: An Exhibition of Art Inspired by Original Books

November 12 - February 5, 2022 at the Peninsula Museum of Art
Space 204, Tanforan Shopping Center, San Bruno

The Peninsula Museum of Art presents Books Against the Wall, an exhibition of Bay Area book artists who translate their works to mixed media and multimedia projects. These artists use the book format to make original works of art and then explore how to share what they have made with a larger audience. The results challenge the viewer to consider the books as sculptures, animations, video games, and more. Some pieces share the processes used in creating the images, while others expand an original concept by presenting it in a new format. The show broadens and enhances our notions of what a book can be.

Books Against the Wall includes work by five artists:

Zach Clark creates work regarding location memory and his own changing relationship with nature. Working in various approaches to publishing, Zach translates analog photography and writing displayed on risograph, screenprinting, and letterpress into broadsides, postcards, booklets, and hand bound books. Brilliant Silence serves as the culminating work of his last six years of his practice, while Deciduous and Tourist Photographs exist as the prologue and epilogue to the series. Various other forms of ephemera fill the rest of his work, including However Strange The Landscape, an accordion booklet. This was published by Buffalo, NY printmaker Rachel Shelton, using Zach's images, which reflects his own collaborative publishing practice.

Sarah Klein puts paper to motion by presenting books, prints, and animations. Informed by a decade of working with stop-motion animation, she uses repetition and variation to activate her subject material. Her work employs or suggests movement. The image sequences are arranged for the viewer to set them into motion, through a GIF app on a smart device or the mind's eye.

Mary V. Marsh makes prints and artists' books that explore the changing technologies of communication through a lens of personal experience and anxiety. Presented here are TABLOID!, a linoleum-cut tabloid newspaper sourcing recent headlines; Vertical Scroll: Unorientable, a large newspaper-like möbius strip, referencing the endless scrolling of digital reading; and Here & Now, which includes hanging book pages featuring linoleum-cuts and rubbings, which evokes a sense of being in two realities at the same time, when immersed in reading a book.

Andy Rottner is an artist, bookbinder, and fine-art publisher. His two books presented here; Smoke Pourin' Out of a Boxcar Door & Talkin' Hard Work translate folk music into drawing and book forms.

Lorna Stevens is a mixed media artist whose work centers on integrating material and technique to represent subject matter. She presents Paradise Drive, an entirely handmade book of sonnets and paintings translated to videos, electronic games, exhibitions, prints, and e-books.
