

A New Smartphone App

ADAMHS launched a new smartphone app to help people connect to a network of brain health service providers in the palm of their hand. The GetHelpNow Montgomery County app is available for download from the Apple App Store or Google Play for Android. The app, developed by Ascend Innovations, gives users directions from their current location, direct call ability, the types of services offered by each provider, and the insurance and payments they accept. Plus, users can find supportive services such as naloxone training, hotline phone numbers and housing services.

Staff Kudos

Director of Treatment and Supportive Services Jodi Long was selected Ohio Crisis Intervention Team Coordinator by the National Alliance on Mental Illness. So far, 22% of uniformed officers in the county have been trained on how to approach a person they believe to have a mental health disorder. Director of Training Jennifer Cox is part of a national team selected to give a Congressional Briefing in support of the role of Mental Health First Aid Training in public safety, as well as the new naloxone component in the course and its impact on the community. In the training, participants learn about mental illness and how to best respond during a crisis.

#BringingHelpBringingHope

ADAMHS staff delivered 5,000 cookies to law enforcement, EMS/fire departments, service providers and the Regional Dispatch Center. The acts of gratitude was part of a statewide initiative to highlight the good work being done by professionals on the front lines of the opioid/heroin epidemic.

THANK YOU!
