Beginning on February 1, 2020, OhioMHAS will refer people seeking mental health or substance use disorder treatment to a new treatment finder tool, FindTreatment.gov.

FindTreatment.gov is an online treatment finder database created by the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA), which collected information on thousands of state-licensed providers that specialize in treating substance use disorders, addiction, and mental illness. SAMHSA has also created a national 24/7 helpline to assist with treatment referrals and information. Call 1-800-662-HELP (4357) to speak to someone.

Visitors to the website can learn about what to expect when they call a treatment provider and read an explanation of treatment options. The database includes Medication-Assisted Treatment options and some housing providers. Please visit FindTreatment.gov to browse its tools, filters and search options.

The information included on FindTreatment.gov is collected and maintained by SAMHSA. To learn more about how the data is collected, or to request an update to the database, please see the Facility Eligibility section at https://findtreatment.samhsa.gov/locator/link-Applns.html.

FindTreatment.gov will replace our current links to the Emerald Jenny Foundation’s online treatment finder for SUD providers and the OhioMHAS Find Mental Health Treatment link on the mha.ohio.gov website for mental health providers. FindTreatment.gov allows individuals to look for both mental health and substance use disorder services in one resource.

Please direct all questions about the content of this resource to SAMHSA. If you have general questions about this change, please contact the OhioMHAS Creative Services team at creativeservicesteam@mha.ohio.gov.
