13. Hundreds attended the first-ever Myrtle Beach Amateur Contest last weekend at the Matt Hughes Skate Park, and that's the subject of our Photos of the Week. The contest drew local and regional skateboard enthusiasts who competed for $2,000 in prizes. Proceeds from the event go toward expansion of the skate park, located between Pepper Geddings Recreation Center and Doug Shaw Memorial Stadium. The large, family-friendly crowd enjoyed beautiful weather, food trucks, vendors and more as they watched the competition and cheered on their favorites.

14. Did you know... That the Ted C. Collins Law Enforcement Center on Oak Street is named for the late Ted C. Collins, who served the city for 20 years, first as a member of City Council and then as a municipal judge? Judge Collins died suddenly December 26, 2000. He served on City Council from 1978 to 1986 and then as a Municipal Court judge from 1988 until his death. City Council named the Law Enforcement Center in Judge Collins' honor on March 13, 2001. Council's proclamation reads, in part, "Ted Collins was well known for his compassion, humor, friendliness, warmth and personality, traits that won the respect of others and served him well in politics and on the bench."
