NARRATIVE:

On September 19, 2023, at 7:40 AM, members of the South Burlington Police and Fire Departments responded to a construction site located at 3090 Williston Road for the report of an industrial accident. Upon arrival responding personnel began providing medical assistance to an employee of PC Construction who had been struck and pinned by construction material that had fallen from a forklift. After extracting the employee, the male victim was transported to the University of Vermont Medical Center for treatment of his injuries, which proved to be fatal. There is no suspicion of criminal activity, and the incident remains under investigation by both the Vermont Occupational Safety and Health Administration (VOSHA), as well as PC Construction.
