SCOPE OF WORK
Branding, Product Development & Marketing Action Plan
Tinley Park

The development of the Branding Program for Tinley Park, IL will include a collaborative process. The Branding Process is comprised of the following 13 steps, and the first ten of them are the Scope of Work for RBI.

Deposit: $8,000

Step #1: The Brand Development Team
Approximate time: 3-4 weeks to form the team.

The branding process begins with the organization of a local Brand Development Team (BDT), assembled by Tinley Park, with assistance from RBI. This is the group of stakeholders who will take the lead in finding and developing the brand direction. Typically this team is made up of no more than 13 people.

Step #2: Public Branding Workshop and Outreach
Cost for Step #2: $8,000.00
Time for public workshop: One day
Online questionnaire: Three weeks

Public presentation
During this visit, Roger Brooks will present The Art of Branding as a kickoff to educate the community about the branding process: why it’s important, that it goes far beyond logos and tag lines, and its value for the area for generations. This is typically a 1.5-hour public workshop.

The workshop could be televised locally, recorded, and is a great way to kick off the public outreach effort. In addition to the public, the press should be invited as well as all stakeholder organizations.

Meeting with the Brand Development Team
While in Tinley Park, Roger will meet with members of the Brand Development Team to seek input, answer questions, and to walk through the next steps and timelines.
Public outreach, questionnaire
During the presentation Roger will kick-off the public outreach effort asking members of the audience to answer nine questions about the Tinley Park branding effort, and then alerting all in attendance, including the press, about the online questionnaire, which will be available immediately after the workshop.

The online questionnaire is the public’s chance to provide input. The BDT will place the link to the questionnaire on their websites as appropriate, which they should publicize on local radio, television, in news publications, and on local websites – particularly the village’s websites and the lead organizations’ sites.

The questionnaire provides valuable insight, and even visitors to the area and those outside the area can participate. It’s good to hear what their perceptions of Tinley Park are and what it would take to get them to spend more time and money in the area, and most importantly, what it would take to have them interested in relocating, starting a business, or moving a business to Tinley Park.

The online questionnaire typically runs for three to four weeks.

Step #3: Stakeholder Interviews
Cost for Step #3: $9,000.00
Approximate time: 3 days

Stakeholder interviews
During an additional, separate visit, an RBI team member will meet with stakeholders in an interview format – as groups or individuals. The Brand Development Team will create the list of people and/or organizations they think should be interviewed about the branding process. Other community leader interviews may also be conducted by teleconference, e-mail, or telephone. This will include six groups with up to 12 people per group.

Based on the information gathered, RBI will develop a comprehensive SWOT Analysis (Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities, and Threats). This provides an image of the area today through the eyes of someone from the market area you are most hoping to pull from. It’s the baseline RBI works from and the foundation of the brand.
Step #4: Brand Focus Research
Cost for Step #4: $7,000.00
Approximate time: Minimum 2 weeks

THE RESEARCH PROCESS

RBI and the BDT will review the feedback from the questionnaire, compiling the results. During this process RBI will facilitate teleconference or video conference calls with the BDT as needed, times and dates to be arranged by mutual consent, to discuss the list of potential brand candidates. RBI will also review the questionnaire responses in terms of demographics, psychographics, and geographic locations.

The BDT, working with the RBI team, will review the feedback from the nine-question online and workshop questionnaires. This helps identify current perceptions of the community, challenges, opportunities, and what locals would like the community to be known for.

There are four primary outcomes from the research process:

1. What current perceptions are of Tinley Park from both local residents and from outsiders – the markets you are hoping to attract. This is your baseline to work from. Often communities need “repositioning” or “rebranding.”

2. Who the primary, secondary and tertiary markets are in terms of geographic areas, demographics, and lifestyle (or tapestry) segments.

3. What Tinley Park would like to be known for, specifically.

4. A SWOT analysis (strengths, weaknesses, opportunities & threats) as seen by local and area-wide residents, and in the primary and secondary markets. This would be combined with the interview process done earlier.

When it comes to a potential brand direction, RBI will categorize the input from the questionnaire into three primary categories:

1. A feeling
   Often local residents will offer brand recommendations along the line of “home town feel,” or “friendly people,” “great atmosphere,” “good weather” and other ideas that evoke more of a feeling than a foundation built on product. These are not eliminated, but come into play with the look and feel of the brand and its messaging. Just remember that we’re looking for that one thing that really differentiates Tinley Park from everyone else. In the end the feeling will pay a major role – after all, a brand is a perception – the feeling we have when Tinley Park is mentioned. But at this stage we’re looking for a point of differentiation.

2. Complementary activities
Many respondents will include things the people you’re hoping to attract can already enjoy closer to home such as great parks, trail systems, good schools, nice downtown, rich history, and many others. These are grouped with other “complementary activities” – to be marketed, for sure, but they are not the one unique selling proposition we are looking for at this point.

3. Brand candidates
This final group is typically a very short list of things that are truly unique to the area and have the possibility of being leveraged as the primary brand direction. Sometimes it’s a combination (or packaging) of complementary activities, with enhanced product, combined with the feeling or emotion tied to the community.

With this research as a foundation, combined with input from the BDT and stakeholder interviews, RBI will have a solid local base to work from.

Research will also include reviews of demographic information, reviews of previous plans and studies, tapestry studies, lodging tax revenue reports. The research element of the program is quite extensive. RBI will look very closely at the following elements:

Current and past demographics including new trends in the Tinley Park area and in the region (from existing studies and reports)
- Income levels, race, age, educational attainment and many other factors
- How well the area is retaining its youth
- Visitor trends and visitation statistics – who you are currently attracting
- Business growth, business sectors, and relocations to and from the area
- From this RBI may find potential growth areas

Perception analysis
- RBI will also research the perceptions people have of Tinley Park in the top three market areas you are hoping to attract to the area. After all, brands are perceptions.
The best way to see where you are in terms of today’s brand is to ask locals, visitors, and potential investors. The online questionnaire will provide a window into what people think of the area: what they think your brand is today.

Competitive analysis
- Brands are built on points of differentiation. As the list of potential brand candidates is identified, RBI will make sure those are not already “owned” by a competing community or area.

Tapestry and psychographic analysis
- RBI will obtain and review tapestry reports, which provides an excellent picture of the Tinley Park lifestyle trends – what motivates people to live and invest in the area. This also identifies the “core attributes” of “who you are” in terms of Tinley Park residents. It will also tell us where people shop, what they read, where they travel to, and will identify development opportunities – or missing segments that can increase spending and development investment locally.

This research and input will provide a clear understanding of the current image, its challenges, its weaknesses, its assets, and its opportunities.

Market identification
The next step is for RBI to identify the primary and secondary markets you are working to attract. This includes business and industry sectors, visitors, and new residents. Those markets will include geographic areas, demographics, and lifestyle groups. RBI will look at seasonality, and how that can be leveraged in the branding process. This will result in an understanding of current and potential markets.

Step #5: The Brand Feasibility Test
Cost for Step #5: $7,000.00
Approximate time: Minimum 2-3 weeks

With the primary, secondary and tertiary markets identified and the feedback from the area complete, RBI will run the final brand options through the feasibility testing process. RBI’s proprietary ten-point “Feasibility Test” narrows the focus down to two or three possible primary directions, and it ensures that the brand direction meets the goals identified in the research process. This will take place WITH the Brand Development Team, who is apprised of the process and weighs in – individually and as a group – as the research is taking place.
RBI will review past and current comprehensive and marketing plans to make sure the final brand candidates don't conflict with other planning and marketing efforts. This effort will dovetail work already done or in process, creating a smooth transition towards your new brand direction.

The outcome will be THE brand direction that will differentiate Tinley Park from competing communities, be embraced by the community, and will make Tinley Park the destination of choice for investment, as a place to live, work and visit.

Roger Brooks will facilitate a teleconference or video conference with the BDT to review the results of the research, public outreach, competitive analysis and brand direction findings. This is where the final brand candidates are discussed and a "Brand Platform" is established.

Step #6: The Brand Leadership Team

Cost for Step #6: $3,000.00

Approximate time: This process is ongoing and is usually finalized after the Brand Camp Week.

After the Brand Development Team (BDT) has gone through the process with RBI, it will be time to hand the reins over to the Brand Leadership Team (BLT) – the group of champions who will be charged with implementing the Branding, Development & Marketing Action Plan.

The Brand Development Team’s work was to determine the brand direction. The Brand Leadership Team will be the people who will LEAD the effort. It may be the very same group of people, or some may go and new “champions” added. Branding requires tireless champions who will never take no for an answer, will push the brand forward, and will sell it to the communities.

The most successful brands are always championed by those with a vested interest in the brand. Why? Because their paycheck depends on it. For instance, if you want to be a gardening capital, the people who will champion it are those in the gardening industry: nurseries, landscape architects, landscape companies, outdoor living retailers, flower shops, garden clubs, etc. If the brand makes you a vibrant cultural destination then the arts will play a big role in the brand and it will be important to include those “champions” in the branding process while still keeping the Team relatively small and flexible.
When you narrow your focus to a distinct, unique brand, not everyone will agree. The Brand Leadership Team will be comprised of people who enthusiastically work hard to “sell” locals on the brand direction and what’s in it for them.

Step #7: Building the Action Plan - Brand Camp Week

Cost for Steps 7, 8, 9: $30,000.00

Time: Four days in Tinley Park

THE ACTION PLAN

RBI will spend four days in Tinley Park to meet with the Brand Leadership Team (BLT) and to put the pieces together in terms of the product that will back up and reinforce the brand, funding ideas, responsibilities by organization, the look and feel of the brand, and the marketing messaging. RBI will spend an intensive four days in Tinley Park, working with local champions. Several workshop sessions with stakeholders will be held, in which collaboration results in creatively developing your direction, brand story and brand promise. Ideas are explored in the light of the research and feasibility – all the while keeping in mind the economic development goals of the branding process.

The schedule for the week will be fluid, and BLT members will be invited to join the RBI team throughout the week and will provide input and feedback as RBI creates the plan and the brand graphics right there in the community. RBI finds it’s important to develop this with you, not back in another office a distance away. RBI will set up and work from a “design studio” in Tinley Park where all the pieces will come together as the brand is crafted. Meetings with RBI and the BLT will be scheduled upon mutual consent during this week.

STEP #8: The Brand Story & The Action Plan

While in the community, the BLT and RBI Brand Team will craft the brand story and Brand Promise – the paragraph that concisely depicts the brand: what you want the community to be known for and sets you apart from everyone else. This will be your “mission statement” for years to come, guiding future development, business recruitment, and community development efforts. The first day in the community is spent crafting this story.
The second day will be dedicated to product development where RBI will begin drafting the Action Plan, including individualized recommendations, listed in chronological order and including:
- A description of the recommendation
- Who would be charged with implementation
- When it would be implemented (in order)
- The approximate cost of implementation
- Possible funding sources
- The rationale for making the recommendation

Product development includes downtown recommendations; perhaps recruitment of needed supporting businesses, niche brands (or sub-brands), seasonal considerations, and how the brand can work for economic development, community development and tourism. It also includes identifying specific business opportunities. As an economic development brand, businesses should be able to invest in the brand. While all of this work is taking place, RBI’s Creative Director will be on site creating concepts for a brand identity (logo), the look and feel of the brand in terms of photography or graphic-design imagery, and initial key marketing concepts.

While RBI doesn’t expect to have the Brand Leadership Team working with them the entire four days, each day a meeting should be held. Others on the team can stop into the “design studio” any time. Likewise, RBI may call or stop by Tinley Park’s offices should they have questions. RBI may occasionally run out to a site, the downtown, or to a facility to take a second look at how it fits into the brand and/or what can be done to help make it a stronger component of the brand.

STEP #9: BrandGraphics

The third day will be spent crafting the marketing messaging from taglines, to the look and feel of the brand. While many companies focus on the graphic design elements, the key marketing messages are equally as important. What you say your key marketing messages are – and the product that backs it up – is as critical as the look and feel of the brand. All four branding elements are important and will be given consideration:

1. The look and feel of your brand (graphic design)
2. Key marketing messages (tag lines, headers, body text, social media, etc.)
3. Product development (the activities, amenities and businesses that provide ownership of the brand)
4. Making sure the brand differentiates you from the other communities in Illinois.
The Brand Graphics Kit will include:
- Brand identity (logo) for Tinley Park
- Website(s) home page concept and digital marketing concepts
- Pole banners concepts
- Wayfinding signage concepts
- Print advertising (typically four to six) concepts
- Brand awareness posters (typically three or four) concepts
- Concepts for bookmarks or other giveaway items to help promote the brand
- Brand logo gear concepts
- Business cabinet (letterhead, envelope, label, business cards) concept
- Two to three brochure covers concepts
- Billboard design concept
- Marketing tag lines and key marketing messages
  for:
  - Relocation information
  - Business development & recruitment
  - Tourism promotion
  - Local population endorsement

This takes place with the Brand Leadership Team, in your community, where RBI and the BLT work as a unified team on the messaging and how the brand will look and feel. This is also where RBI takes the input received (ideas that evoked a feeling and the complementary activities) and weave them into a unique image and messaging that fits ONLY your community.

To effectively illustrate the conceptual marketing graphics, photography and fonts may be used. These are for conceptual use only, and the rights to the photography and fonts will remain the property of their respective owners. We strongly encourage Tinley Park to use professional photographs shot on location in their final marketing pieces.

Public outreach, round #2
On the fourth day (typically a Friday morning) a presentation to the community will be held to unveil the brand direction – and often a BridgeBrand – how you market the community between now and when the product will actually be in place – if that’s needed.
This will not be “rolling out a brand” because a brand is a perception – it’s earned. BUT this will be an opportunity to educate the community on how it will be marketed, what the product is that backs it up, and how this will benefit Tinley Park for generations. This can be a public workshop, or can be an invitation-only affair to include elected officials, stakeholders, businesses, and others who can help push the agenda forward and will play a role in the plan’s implementation.

The presentation will be presented by Roger Brooks and typically takes an hour.

The week concludes with a “Where do we go from here?” meeting with the Brand Leadership Team.

While much of the Brand Graphics work will take place during this visit, they will be further refined and finished upon return to RBI’s office.

Three identity (logo) concepts will be created. The RBI team and Brand Leadership Team shall select one of the three concepts, from which the BLT shall have the option of two rounds of revisions.

The presentation will be given to the Brand Leadership Team who can create a 20-minute version for presentations to city councils, county commissioners, Kiwanis, Rotary and other auxiliary organizations, school and hospital boards, and to your individual boards and memberships.

Step #10: The Branding, Product Development & Marketing Action Plan

Cost for Step #10: $13,000.00

Approximate time: 90 days after the BrandCamp

Upon returning to the office, RBI will write up the plan, which typically includes 20 to 40 different recommendations, and this will become the BLT’s Branding, Product Development & Marketing Action Plan for implementing the brand.

Marketing recommendations will cover a two- to five-year period, and the product development recommendations could extend for ten or more years, depending on the chosen brand direction.

A draft copy of the Plan will be sent as a Word document to the BLT for review and input. The BLT shall provide their suggested edits in one document and send it to RBI to make the final edits and changes to the plan. RBI shall review the suggested edits, make the necessary changes, and then the final plan will be created and sent to the Brand Leadership Team for implementation. Six hard copies and high- and low-resolution PDF versions of the plan will be provided to Tinley Park.

IMPLEMENTATION

Step #11: Make Something Happen - Ongoing

The best way to introduce a brand to the community is to make something visual happen. It might be the installation of new pole banners with the new brand-identity (logo), or new business cards, ads and marketing materials that have a different look and focus. Branding works best if people can get used to it over time. The branding plan will include detailed step-by-step instructions on what needs to be done to achieve success.

Step #12: Keep the Energy High - Ongoing

Once the RBI crew has headed back to home base, the Brand Leadership Team will be provided the 20-minute presentation that can be used to sell and showcase the brand direction to local organizations, councils, and boards to generate local buy-in. Continuity is key to successful branding, and this is the best way to get local organizations, businesses, residents, and clubs working together.

The RBI team will be available, for six months, to answer questions, participate in conference calls to help keep the Brand Leadership Team pumped up and moving forward.

Step #13: Tell the World & Revisit the Plan Often - Ongoing

Once the product is in place, based on the recommendations from the Branding Plan, it will be time to tell the world what you are about, using the marketing initiatives within the Plan.

It is very helpful to revisit the Branding Plan every three months. As recommendations are implemented, new ideas may emerge, measurables may point out additional areas of focus, and they can be added so the plan remains a “living document.”
