

Village forgoes electrical aggregation

Posted: Sept. 23, 2022

Due to a volatile and challenging energy market, the Village will not be offering its Electrical Aggregation program this year.

With no supplier able to bid lower than the ComEd rate, and no added benefits, the Village believes it is in the best interest to simply have all accounts return to ComEd at this time. The Village, in partnership with its consultant NIMEC, will continue to monitor the situation and hopes to be able to re-establish a program when the market finally levels off.

Residents may receive notices in late September/early October notifying them that their account has been dropped and returned to ComEd. This is normal, and residents do not need to take any action. This is simply Eligo Energy returning all accounts back to ComEd since the Village has no contract in place with a supplier.

Below are the average rates (per kilowatt-hour) that ComEd has released for June 2022 through May of 2023. Keep in mind that these are variable rates and can change from month to month. Learn more about the program on the Village website.
