Transforming THE CITY

Local developer introduces two new downtown residential projects, including one at City Hall

By Terry Jacoby

While Ron Thomas, owner of Rise Above Ventures, which created The Offices in Wyandotte, has moved on to other developments, he is staying close to home. The Wyandotte native now finds himself on the “top” floor of two separate residential projects, both located in downtown Wyandotte.

Thomas, along with partner Joe Daly of Daly Merritt Properties, is in the early stages of developing eight brand-new housing units on the top floor of the Wyandotte City Hall Building, located at the corner of Eureka Road and Biddle Avenue.

“As soon as I walked up there and saw the space I got really excited about this project,” Thomas said. “You can’t really tell what the view looks like from the ground. It’s pretty amazing.”

They will not only feature spectacular water views, but also include downtown garage parking. The space, previously used for offices, has been vacant for years.

Construction will begin in early 2021 on two- and three-bedroom units and prospective tenants can still get in on the design.

“There is still an opportunity for people interested in these to choose some of the amenities and even a floor plan,” Thomas said. “It’s a unique chance to design your own place in a location without parallel in our town.”

Thomas also is working with other local partners to help develop several other exciting projects in Wyandotte, including a downtown restaurant and another apartment location.

Thomas, who came up with a concept of providing professional and flexible working spaces for people and small businesses who didn’t want to get tied down with long-term leases, opened The Offices in Wyandotte on First and Oak Street in August 2019 and then opened the second location on the corner of First and Maple in August 2020.

The Offices at First and Maple (100 Maple St.) was just the first phase of bringing the old Daly

Merritt Insurance building back to life.

Now called the Maple Professional Building, Thomas and his business partner on that development, Justin Bise, are nearly finished with a redevelopment of that historic Wyandotte building.

The second half of that project is a new downtown restaurant called The Vault on First – a tip of the hat to the original tenant of the building, First National Bank of Wyandotte. It’s a “perfect combination of history and contemporary,” that will offer upscale fine dining with prime cut meats, wild-caught seafood, locally raised chicken and an extensive wine list.

Thomas and Bise are overseeing the construction of The Vault while Christ and Carole Doulos will run the restaurant, which is expected to be open by the end of February.

Above the restaurant, Thomas and Bise are building six brand-new loft apartments that will be high quality, but also affordable.

“We are looking to price them between $1,000 and $1,200 a month,” Thomas said.

Thomas, with over 15 years of experience in event promotion and marketing, began working in entry-level real estate projects about 10 years ago. He founded Rise Above Ventures in 2018.

“I try to build amenities that I see a need for in a community,” said Thomas, 36, and a 2002 graduate of Roosevelt High School. “We have a lot of retail and bars and restaurants and that’s great and they are all good places. But we also need a balance of residential units that are affordable to people, but also high quality combined with other economic activity downtown. If we can get the mix right, we can transform the city into whatever it wants to become.”

I'll spend today with what matters most. And, receive a great reward.

Convenience, safety key to private aviation company

Jet Linx Detroit provides concierge services anticipating all the clients' needs before, during and after flights to anywhere in the world.

"Think of it as the Ritz Carlton of private aviation," said Bill Royce, Detroit base president.

Customer experience and convenience are the focal points of the national company founded in 1999. The Detroit base, at Oakland County International Airport in Waterford, was established in 2015.

"We know our clients' preferences and we are always looking at making the entire travel experience with us at the very highest level, from the plane, the pilots, the training and how we interact with the membership," Royce said. "We look for anything they might enjoy that we know of and we have that on the flight with them or in their car waiting. That's our key differentiator, it's personalized."

Guaranteed service/high safety ratings

Every detail, from umbrellas to dinner reservations, is considered and managed. With 19 private terminals in the U.S., Jet Linx has 103 aircraft, ranging from light jets carrying up to six people, medium jets holding up to eight people, and heavy jets that accommodate as many as 12.

Jet Linx has 2,400 card members nationwide. The private aviation company provides guaranteed fixed hourly rates to members.

"We require our members pay a membership fee to join our program for guaranteed availability of a jet anytime they need it, guaranteed pricing for the year, so there's no surprises and they are guaranteed the highest level of safety," Royce said.

Jet Linx has the highest possible level of safety ratings from ARGUS International, which has given the company a platinum rating.

"Only 6 percent (of part 135 private jet operators) are rated platinum and we're one of them," Royce said, adding that Wyvern Wingman provides audits on pilots and maintenance personnel training standards, "and we have the highest rating level with them." Additionally, the International Business Aviation Council created, IS-BAO, which does an audit on overall safety procedures and safety management systems, and "we also have the highest rating level with them."

Meeting needs/COVID considerations

The most common Jet Linx clients are prominent Detroit area families and businesses.

"From a business perspective, companies need to get to some of their more remote locations and they find it efficient to get to several locations in one or two days rather than go with commercial airlines," Royce said.

During the pandemic, he added, Jet Linx switched from providing mostly business travel to primarily flying people for personal reasons. Families were looking for the extensive protection against COVID-19 and sought out the elaborate disinfecting practices provided by Jet Linx, Royce said, adding the private company also offers fewer touch points than walking through an airport.

"People can drive right up to our terminal," he said. "Those who have the means, especially if they were on the fence before, are starting to take advantage of private aviation more."

Private charter flights offer a range of other advantages, he said, pointing to being able to avoid the hustle and bustle of busy airports and the security lines; time efficiency, with quicker check-ins; and expansive cabin interiors that provide luxury seating, allowing passengers to recline their seats for the duration of the journey.

The company also takes pride in community programs, including Michigan Humane, Blood Cancer Foundation of Michigan and the Boys and Girls Club of Troy.

WHAT WE LOVE ABOUT WYANDOTTE!

1. OUR HISTORIC DOWNTOWN

Incorporated in 1867, the city of Wyandotte is often described as the "Heart of Downriver." The site where Wyandotte sits today was, in the 1700s, a village for the Native American tribe known as the Wyandot, a part of the Huron Nation. A waterfront community, Wyandotte is rich in history and is known for its distinctive architecture, charming downtown district and variety of cultural offerings.

2. FIND ART IN WYANDOTTE!

Wyandotte is well known for its numerous community events, festivals, and our annual Wyandotte Street Art Fair. The event traces its history to 1961 when a handful of artists from the Acanthus Art Society exhibited their work in front of a local downtown business. From these humble beginnings, the Wyandotte Street Art Fair has grown to be one of the largest and best-attended fairs in the state. ART is one of the earliest creative images representing the fair. ART's likeness was rediscovered on an early Street Art Fair poster in the archival collections of the Wyandotte Museums. Originally a stylized line drawing, ART represents a true piece of Wyandotte history! When ART first made his debut in Wyandotte, it was 1964 and the Street Fair was only three years old. ART is fun, funky, and creative, encapsulating the spirit of our fair. Every year, ART gets a new interpretation by a regional artist, so stay tuned for what he will look like this year!

3. SPLISH, SPLASH

Wyandotte is a waterfront community. Get out there and boat, kayak, or fish! Whatever you choose to do here in Wyandotte, make sure to have fun while doing it!

4. CITY OF FESTIVALS!

Wyandotte is known for our many events that take place throughout the year: The holiday festivities, Wyandotte Third Fridays, the Independence Day parade. Visit our downtown and have a fun and festive time!

A BIT OF WYANDOTTE HISTORY...

The area that became the city of Wyandotte was first settled in 1732 by a branch of the Huron Tribe known as the Wyandots. The Wyandots first arrived from Ontario, Canada when their French allies founded Detroit. The Wyandots followed the Detroit River 10 miles to the south and founded a village named Maquaqua.

The first permanent non-native settler in the area was Major John Biddle. He was an officer in the U.S. Army during the War of 1812 and a mayor of the city of Detroit. His land was located in the area of Biddle and Vinewood Avenues. He named his farm "The Wyandotte" after his neighbors to the south. When other settlers came to the area they started to refer to the area as Wyandotte. It is from Biddle's farm that the city of Wyandotte derives its name.

December 12, 1854 marks the date of the founding of the Village of Wyandotte, which coincides with the founding of Wyandotte's first industry, Eureka Iron Works. On May 26, 1865, Eureka Iron Works was the first mill in the United States to produce steel using the Bessemer Process. This method was the foundation of the industrial revolution and the key to making high-quality steel in large quantities. Unfortunately, Eureka Iron Works suffered a boiler explosion and fire in 1888, from which it never recovered.

The Village of Wyandotte officially became the City of Wyandotte on April 8, 1867. A few years after that event, in 1871, the Wyandotte Shipyards started operation. The shipyards produced many hulls, including the famous and speedy passenger boat, the Tashmoo, and the Columbia, one of the Boblo boats. The Shipyard remained in operation until 1922.

In the early 1890s, a man named Captain J.B. Ford traveled to Wyandotte to investigate the reports of salt deposits found here. Captain Ford was interested in the salt to produce soda ash, a chemical necessary in the manufacture of plate glass. Having found salt in sufficient quality and quantity, Ford created the Michigan Alkali Company to process the chemicals he needed. In addition, he started the J.B. Ford Company to further process the soda ash into various soaps and cleansers sold commercially. These and other chemical plants have formed a lasting industry in Wyandotte that continues to this day. In 1969, the chemical giant BASF purchased the Michigan Alkali Company and the J.B. Ford Company (which merged in the 1930s) when they went public with their stock. BASF continues operations in Wyandotte to this day.

As the other communities of southern suburban Detroit have grown around it, Wyandotte's riverfront and other charms continually draw people from all over the world. Over the years, Wyandotte has mirrored the rest of the country with several waves of immigrant populations moving into the area seeking jobs and community. Much of the city's culture is influenced by the German, Irish, Italian, and Polish immigrants.

The city has several festivals during the year, including the Independence Day Parade, the Heritage Event Series (highlighting culture and history), the Wyandotte Street Art Fair (the second largest in the state), and Skip Clack's Fishing Derby. Also found in the city are many art studios, galleries and boutiques. There have been many local visual and performing arts groups in Wyandotte since its inception. Currently, the Acanthus Art Society is the oldest, having been established in 1932. The City also owns a cultural campus, which includes the Wyandotte Museums. The museums consist of three homes restored to a period-appropriate look.

Wyandotte, which is located 10 miles south of Detroit along the Detroit River, is a community of about 28,000 residents. With a municipally owned water and power plant, the City has the capacity to provide all needed services to businesses and residents.

As the City moves forward, it remains committed to preserving the past and celebrating the unique culture and history that make up the city of Wyandotte.

PUBLIC ART

◀ The Gwen Frostic Sculpture sits in Frostic Field, located just behind the Copeland Center at 4th and Mulberry Streets. The sculpture was given to the city of Wyandotte by Western Michigan University and was dedicated on April 26, 2009. WMU has honored our city and memorialized Ms. Frostic with the gift of this fabulous sculpture, which melds Gwen's metal work with her delicate prints of Michigan's flora and fauna.

The Wyandots – A Family Tribute was dedicated to the city of Wyandotte in 2000. The sculpture sits in BASF Park, near Wyandotte Shores Golf Course. The sculpture was created by Michael Duffy Kramer and is made of bronze. The sculpture is modeled after a Native American family, and depicts items that are essential to their survival: corn, beans, squash, as well as tobacco, sage, sweet grass and cedar.

◀ The Wyandot Totem Pole was carved by Gordon Watkins and is constructed of cedar. It was donated by Wyandotte Savings Bank to commemorate the city's 100th anniversary in 1971. The totem pole sits at the southwest corner of Eureka and Biddle Avenues near the fountain. A large turtle sits atop the pole that represents Chief Walk-in-the-Water's family totem. Five other figures tell the story of the Wyandot that settled in this area: an Iroquois warrior, the crest of French explorer Antoine de la Mothe Cadillac, a beaver, a whitefish and the figure of a Wyandot clutching a canoe paddle.

Merrill Lynch Bull and Wyandotte Bear were both created by artist Keith Coleman in 2005 and 2006, respectively. The bull sits on the corner of Biddle Avenue and Oak Street. The bear stands on the corner of Eureka and Fifth Street, in front of Wyandotte Roosevelt High School. They were created from salvaged water heater cores, and have a weathered rust finish.

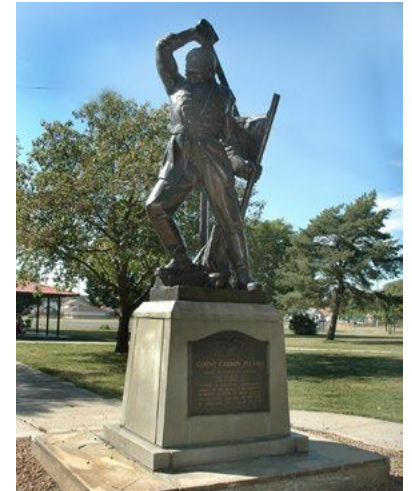

The World War I Memorial is located on Superior Boulevard just east of Biddle Avenue and was dedicated to the city in 1923. The boulder and bronze tablet lists the names of those who lost their lives in World War I. Two cannons also sit on the site of the memorial.

The Veterans Memorial is constructed of black granite and flanked by flags. The Wyandotte Veterans Memorial Committee spearheaded the construction of the memorial, located on Superior Boulevard between Biddle and Van Alstyne. It was designed by Mike Miller, the winner of a design competition held for the project.

The Purple Heart Memorial was designed and sculpted by Isadore DeBiasi of River Rouge. It was originally dedicated by Michigan Governor Harry Kelly in 1943. The statue is a testament to the sacrifice of Michigan servicemen and women. Wyandotte has the distinguished honor of being the first city in the country to which the National Military Order of the Purple Heart commissioned and donated a monument of this type. The Wyandotte Beautification Commission and local veterans worked together from 2007-2010 to raise funds to bronze the statue.

Count Casimir Pulaski was cast in concrete and dedicated in 1938. It was shipped to the New York World's Fair in 1939, and remained there until the Detroit Institute of Arts acquired it. It was then given to Wyandotte to be placed in Pulaski Park, which is located on 12th Street south of Walnut. The statue was re-cast in bronze in 1991 and rededicated to the city.

The Wyandotte Vietnam Veterans Memorial is located at the east end of Superior Boulevard at Van Alstyne Street.

The Looking Forward Statue was donated as a sesquicentennial gift to the city of Wyandotte. The bronze, created by John Pappas of Ypsilanti, was installed in 2000. The sculpture is located in BASF Waterfront Park.

Smart Cities: Connecting your Community

TELECOMMUNICATION SERVICES

The Wyandotte Municipal Services (Wyandotte Cable) telecommunications utility was created by local residents in 1981 when voters demonstrated their confidence in the department's ability by approving an ordinance to place the implementation, construction and operation of the new cable television system under the auspices of the Municipal Service department.

In 1983 the department installed the cable infrastructure throughout the city and began offering basic cable television services. Since 1983 we have developed the limited basic cable television system into a full broadband telecommunications system. In 1999 the cable infrastructure was rebuilt and upgrades to existing services, enhancements and additional service offerings were being introduced. All former equipment for these services has been replaced with new state of the art, technologically advanced equipment which is evident in the quality and number of cable channels, services and features as well as speed and reliability of our internet and phone voice services. Between 2014 & present Wyandotte Cable has built out additional fiber optic cables, gone to all digital & high definition signal format. Wyandotte Cable now offers a wide selection of cable television services from Digital and High Definition programming to advanced internet connected whole home video services powered by TiVo technology with access to everything on all mobile devices. We also offer Turbo High Speed Broadband Internet & Digital Phone services as well as direct fiber business connections for all data services. We also maintain a complete point to point fiber interconnect for all City of Wyandotte and Wyandotte Municipal Services facilities including communication for electric grid as well as a fiber optic interconnect of all public schools in Wyandotte. Today the telecommunications utility serves approximately 5,000 cable television subscribers, 7,000 high-speed internet subscribers and 900 Digital Phone subscribers with annual revenues of approximately $10 million dollars.

Wyandotte Cable will begin rebuilding a Fiber to the Home (FTTH) architecture that will bring fiber optic cable directly into your home. The construction of this new system will begin in March 2021 and be available to serve the citizens of our community within the following 12 months. This will enable all Wyandotte residents and businesses to be the 'Smart Home' of the future where anything and everything can be connected, any device, anytime and anywhere. This system will initially offer 1 Gig Internet connectivity and would immediately be capable of 10G symmetrical connectivity and that service level would be made available as technology is developed to require that capability.

Wyandotte Cable contributes five percent of its gross revenue to the city's general fund and supports a cable television studio where public access, local access and government programming is produced. Wyandotte Cable telecommunications system currently consists of 25 linear miles of fiber-optic lines, over 3,000 strand miles of fiber-optic lines and 72 miles of coaxial cable.

Technology and advanced service upgrades are continually being offered. Look for those upgrades to continue with the fastest internet speeds, additional video entertainment programming in a streaming (IP based) format and other service enhancements that our customers have come to expect that Wyandotte Cable will provide.

WATER DEPARTMENT

In early 1889, local residents created the Wyandotte Municipal Water Utility to provide fire protection and have a convenient safe source of drinking water. Today, the municipal water utility serves over 12,000 consumers, has annual revenues of over 3.5 million and sells over 1.5 billion gallons of water annually.

Wyandotte is the only downriver community that owns and operates a potable water filtration plant. The Wyandotte Municipal Water Plant can produce up to 15 million gallons of water per day. The community's water source is the Detroit River and the treatment process consists of:

- ✧ Screen or remove debris
- ✧ Add alum for coagulation of suspended particles
- ✧ Add chlorine for disinfection
- ✧ Add phosphate for stabilization
- ✧ Remove all suspended particles through filtration
- ✧ Add fluoride to prevent tooth decay

Our water distribution system consists of 110 miles of water mains ranging from 4 inches to 30 inches in diameter. Fire protection is provided by over 850 fire hydrants located throughout the community. The municipal water system has a 500,000 gallon elevated storage tank (water tower) and 4.5 million gallons of ground level storage for peak demand periods such as fighting fires or other emergencies.

OUR DEPARTMENT GOALS

- ✧ Assure availability of potable water based on a projection of our community's needs.
- ✧ Provide a treated water supply and distribution system through the implementation of an engineered plan
- ✧ Maintain cost effective service for all of our customers
- ✧ Ensure compliance with the Safe Drinking Water Act
- ✧ Provide information and education to state and federal officials and legislators, and K-12 systems using ongoing communications and public relations.

WATER CONSERVATION TIPS

- ✧ Install water-saving shower heads and low-flow faucet aerators
- ✧ Insulate water pipes
- ✧ Take shorter showers
- ✧ Use the dishwasher and clothes washer for full loads only
- ✧ Water your lawn only when it needs it

ELECTRIC DEPARTMENT

The Wyandotte Electric Light Company was incorporated on September 19, 1889, for the purpose of manufacturing and supplying electricity for light, heat and power.

In 1892, local residents voted to create a community owned municipal electric utility, which initially provided only street lighting. In 1896, the municipal electric utility began serving retail consumers and for a number of years the municipal electric utility and the Wyandotte Electric Light Company competed locally for consumers.

Today, Wyandotte's municipal electric utility is one of 41 public power systems in Michigan, and one of nearly 2,000 public power systems in the United States. It serves over 12,000 consumers.

Wyandotte Municipal Services' electric department encompasses the Power Plant production of electricity and the Transmission and Distribution (T&D) side of bringing electricity to residents and business located in Wyandotte.

Our municipal electric system has three sources of supply to provide reliable, affordable service. Our electric distribution system consists of 69,000-volt transmission lines and 13,200-volt and 4,800-volt distribution lines. The municipal electric utility also installs, maintains and provides electricity for streetlights throughout the community without additional charge.

Wyandotte having its own electric distribution gives our residents a great advantage when power outages occur. The time to bring our power back online is considerably less than in neighboring communities served by other public power utilities. Reliability is our number one priority. All you have to do is ask any Wyandotte citizen about the reliability of Wyandotte electric and you'll generally get the response that there is no better provider of electric services.

GOING GREEN

Voluntary Green Pricing Electric Power is a program that allows you to buy some or all of your electricity from clean, renewable sources like wind, hydroelectric and biomass energy. Voluntary Green Power produces fewer pollutants than traditional power sources, and can help keep our environment cleaner and greener for generations to come. The program is available to residential and commercial / industrial customers.

OUR DEPARTMENT GOALS

- ✧ Assure availability and reliability of electricity to all our residents and businesses
- ✧ Provide safe electric generation and distribution through the implementation of an engineered plan
- ✧ Maintain cost effective service for all of our customers
- ✧ Ensure compliance with the EPA and all State and Federal regulations
- ✧ Provide information and education to state and federal officials and legislators, and K-12 systems using ongoing communications and public relations

ENERGY CONSERVATION TIPS

- ✧ Lower the thermostat and limit the use of space heaters
- ✧ Keep appliances in good repair
- ✧ Improve water heater efficiency
- ✧ Plug in home electronics, like TVs and DVD players, into power strips and turn it off when equipment is not in use
- ✧ Insulate your attic and make sure all windows and doors are sealed when heating or cooling your home

For more information on how you can go green in your own home or business and for more conservation tips, please visit our website at www.wyan.org!

The Quilted Heart & more

The Quilted Heart & More opened in January of 2010. As an avid quilter for over 30 years, I decided it was time to take my knowledge and experience to the next level having realized "there is no better time than the present". The Quilted Heart is a longarm quilting service operating out of a quaint shop in Historic Downtown Wyandotte, Michigan.

We believe that the greatest inspirations come from the heart and there is no better medium to express them with than fabric. Quilts are not only warm and beautiful blankets to be handed down through the generations; they are storybooks, which tell the tales of great love, dedication and compassion that cannot be expressed simply with words.

For my longarm quilting, I work on a Gammill® Optimum Plus machine equipped with Statler Stitcher®, a computer software program that can stitch almost any design. The Gammill®, Statler Stitcher® combination can quilt an intricate pattern onto a king-size quilt in a matter of hours.

You can visit The Quilted Heart & More storefront to see this dynamic machine in action and observe first hand the beautiful results of first rate longarm quilting.

Wyandotte Street Art Fair

The city of Wyandotte is known for many things, and one of them is the Wyandotte Street Art Fair. The Wyandotte Street Art Fair (WSAF) is conveniently located in downtown Wyandotte, the heart of the city, and reaches over 200,000 people for the four-day event. This year, the Art Fair will take place July 7-10, 2021. With summer right around the corner, we want to share some history and fun facts about the fair to get you excited to Find ART in Wyandotte at the 60th Annual Wyandotte Street Art Fair!

The event's history traces back to 1961 with a handful of artists from the Acanthus Art Society who exhibited their work in front of local downtown businesses. From these humble beginnings, the Wyandotte Street Art Fair (WSAF) has grown to be one of the largest and best-attended fairs in the state. The artist portion of the fair is by far the most exciting. The WSAF features fine artists as well as emerging artists, artist demonstrations, children's art, the Clock Tower Craft Show along First Street and a garden art section to inspire everyone's green thumb. We guarantee there will be something for everyone!

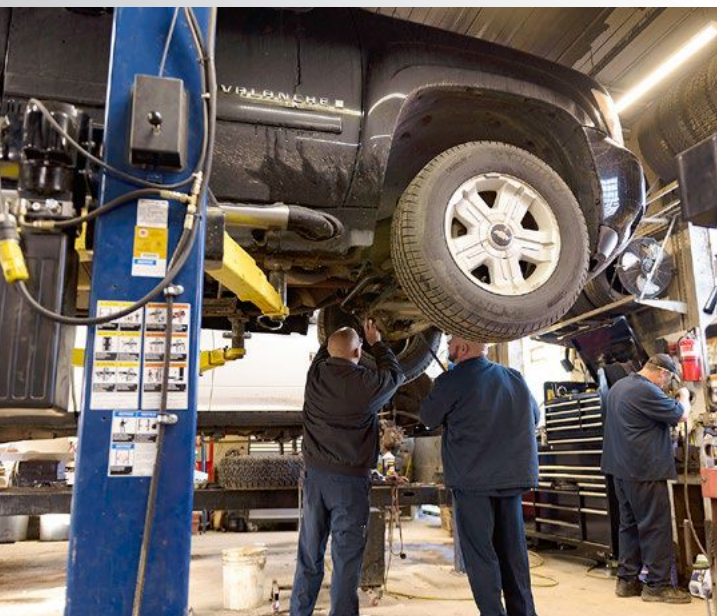

ART! In 2009, our staff found an early fair poster dating back to 1964. In it was a stylized line drawing in the Wyandotte Museums archival collections that was lovingly named "ART". ART represents a true piece of Wyandotte's history, as he is one of the earliest creative images representing our fair. His mid-century modern aesthetic is fun, funky and creative, and has been reimagined by a handful of artists since his discovery years ago. ART has been many different mediums and themes, including a circus ring leader, a super hero flying through the streets of downtown Wyandotte spreading the word on the fair, and he just recently received a pet pup named Pigment! Stay tuned for the reveal of this year's ART!

Southgate Realtor
Lisa Sobell supports locals doing good

Any successful business is a blessing to the community in which it operates, even if it does no more than provide great products or services, and pay good salaries to its employees.

But of course, many successful businesses want to do more than that. They see the opportunity to take what they've earned and support worthwhile organizations that also give back to the community – and that adds even more to the value such companies provide.

Southgate realtor and associate broker Lisa Sobell, who operates the Southgate office of Real Estate One, has turned corporate giving into an art form.

In 2018, Real Estate One's Southgate Office Charitable Foundation raised $17,778 for local nonprofits. So in 2019, the Foundation set a goal of raising at least that much. To say they surpassed the goal would be putting it mildly. As of the end of October, they had raised $32,124, with more than $4,000 of it coming from Southgate-based Real Estate One agents alone.

However, 2020 has taken a toll on everyone.

"Our fundraising has really taken a hit," Sobell said. "We did get to provide support to the Wyandotte Soup Kitchen for Giving Tuesday. And the generous agents and staff at our office sponsored the holiday food boxes for Christmas. Agents brought in canned food by the dozens to round out family boxes containing cranberry sauce, gravy, corn, cornbread muffin/stuffing mix, and brownie mix to feed 90 families."

She also expressed her appreciation for the people who stepped up to help.

"While we were very disappointed that we could not hold our in-person fundraisers to generate more money to financially support more local charities this year, we had to help somehow," Sobell said. "I saw that Sarah Pettigrew had posted on social media the list of items needed for this project and knew we could step up. Our office was very excited to help! Soon, our café was full of food ready to be packed and delivered."

Sobell's Southgate office has seen significant growth in recent years, helped by the vast scope of territory they cover. Although they are based Downriver, that is far from the only area where they've had listings.

"I've had property listings as far out as Jackson County," Sobell said.

But a definite hot spot is Wyandotte.

"Wyandotte's got it going on," Sobell said. "They have a great downtown, and they've really developed it over the past 15 years."

As the community continues to grow and develop further, more good news rolls in for Sobell and her team at Real Estate One.

"Good businesses attract more good businesses," Sobell said. "They attract more restaurants. It's really becoming a popular place for people to come to."

Good businesses themselves are helped by lots of support and cooperation from the city government, and Sobell has had great experiences herself in that area.

"Wyandotte has really gotten on the ball with city services," Sobell said. "It's nice to do business in Wyandotte because you know what to expect."

Communities also tend to appreciate businesses who make a point of supporting those doing good at the local level, so Sobell is in a good position to maintain that goodwill – even as the local area benefits from her generosity and community-mindedness.

Everyone seems to win here. It's a good way of doing business – and of doing community.

For more information about Real Estate One and their services, email Sobell at lisa@realestateone.com or call her office at (734) 225-9424.

The Wyandotte Museums

Visit! Learn! Get involved!

Did you know the City of Wyandotte has a space dedicated to bringing local culture and history to life? Situated at the southwest corner of Biddle Avenue and Vinewood Street is three of the four buildings that make up the Wyandotte Museums campus. Each structure has its own unique story and current usage – the main showcase of which, the Ford-MacNichol Home at the very corner, is Wyandotte's official museum.

Initially the property of Major John Biddle, former Mayor of Detroit, and then the Eureka Iron Works, the building we see today was completed in 1896 in the rich, Victorian Queen Anne style. The 6,600 square-foot home, much of the interior being original, boasts 32 rooms, 11 closets and 6 fireplaces. Visitors will find leaded stained-glass windows, rich golden oak installations, speaking tube technology, and custom, rounded tower areas.

From 1896 through 1977, the grand home passed through many hands. The MacNichols were the original inhabitants, followed by the Drennans and finally the Lattas, before the City purchased the home and it opened as a museum in 1980.

Visitors can learn much more about the home, its former owners, and various other aspects and tidbits of Wyandotte and local history by dropping by for a guided tour. Tours are available Thursdays through Sundays from 1:00 pm to 5:00 pm, March to October, as well as in December, and admission is free!

The Wyandotte Museums also offers much more than just tours! In fact, each year, the Heritage Events Series takes place both on and off the campus. From garage sales to a cemetery stroll, Christmas open houses to a pie and ice cream social, guests are bound to find something fun and engaging. Please see the event pages in this magazine for more information.

Host YOUR Event with Us!

Whether your special wedding day, birthday party, club meeting, or trivia night, the Wyandotte Museums campus can accommodate your event! Please consult the rentals pages in this magazine or contact our office for more information about how you can rent the Marx Home, Old Timers Log Cabin at the waterfront, or even the Museum itself for your event!

Please call (734) 324-7284 or email museum@wyan.org to make an appointment. A topic of interest will be required in order to assemble items for your research.

No Sliding, No Cursing, No Gloves

Wyandotte's Vintage Base Ball Team lives America's history

It may surprise many to know Wyandotte has its very own historic base ball team. Yes, you read that correctly: base ball. Back in 1867, when the original Wyandotte Star Club was formed, the spelling was a little different, as were many of the rules, as you can see in the title at the top of this page!

Today, a group of volunteers, young and old and from all walks of life, don similar vintage uniforms each weekend and play the game as it was played 150 years ago. They network and compete against other historic teams, interact and educate the public, and engage in various Museum events throughout the year – all in the name of fun.

The Stars practice and play home games at Memorial Field at Pennsylvania Avenue and 23rd Street. All matches start at 1:00 pm. Yearly game schedules are available by contacting or stopping by the Museum office, starting in early Spring. The Stars also play their Annual Home Classic, which is a festival held in late August. All are invited to see the Stars play for free – no tickets necessary!

Want to learn more about the Wyandotte Stars? Go to www.wyandotte.net/arts_and_culture/museums.com to find out more about their history and current roster (published by early Spring).

Dwellings Michigan offers Wyandotte homebuyers and sellers top-notch service, expansive experience By Terry Jacoby

The best way to find out about a business or company is to talk with their customers and clients. They will tell you, without bias, what they think about their personal experience. And their personal experience often goes beyond the numbers and directly to the real bottom line.

When one listens to what both buyers and sellers have to say about Dwellings Michigan, it will become quite clear why they have been “buying and selling” with great success since the company was founded over six years ago.

Testimonials from former and current clients include such positive comments as “incredibly helpful and responsive”, “very knowledgeable and experienced”, and “provided a wonderful home buying experience.”

Founded by Boyd Rudy and Shannon Hall, Dwellings opened its first office in Plymouth in 2014, and it didn’t take long for the new kids on the block to become elite players in a highly competitive neighborhood. Voted Top Realtor by Click on Detroit in 2016 and chosen by Hour Detroit as one of the top 5 percent of Realtors in Metro Detroit for 2016-2020, Dwellings combined their years of real estate experience in the area, along with a powerful and comprehensive marketing plan, to put impressive numbers on the spreadsheet, and more importantly, smiles on their customer’s faces.

Rudy, who was a vice president at his previous firm, has experience and knowledge in all phases of real estate – including the mortgage and loan industry, foreclosures and short sales, real estate investments and buying and selling. He was a consistent top producer for brokers he worked with prior to starting his own company.

Hall, a multi-million-dollar top-producing Realtor, also brought her experience as a licensed residential builder to the business.

“We were both among the top two in sales for the brokerage and one day just decided to merge our teams and create what has become Dwellings Michigan,” Rudy said. “We started Dwellings for a couple of reasons. One was because we wanted to bring service back to the real estate industry. People pay a ton of money in commission for someone to sell their house and we felt like people deserve to get something for that.”

And that “something” combines old-school relationships and trust with high-tech, geo-local internet/social media marketing. Dwellings just doesn’t stick a sign in the front yard and wait for the phone to ring.

“The way we bring properties to market is much different than how other people do,” Rudy said. “We provide professional staging, professional photography, professional social media and internet marketing and bring all of that to every client, whether it’s a $100,000 listing or a million-dollar listing. And the end result is our clients usually get above what their neighbors sell for. We set records all the time for highest sales in the area and people have come to trust us because we consistently deliver.”

And while Dwellings has always had a foot in Wyandotte, Rudy and Hall saw an opportunity to go all in on a market and community they see as very strong with even stronger potential.

“I look at Wyandotte now the way I looked at Plymouth 25 years ago when they were on that comeback trail,” Rudy said. “We are excited to be right in the middle of the downtown area on Biddle Street, and we want to help promote and support the downtown businesses, charities and communities. Opening an office here only made sense. We are excited to have a physical presence here now.”

Dwellings Michigan is located at 2932 Biddle Avenue, Wyandotte.

New allergy-friendly restaurant will bring downtown flair, many choices

By Sundra Hilsinger

An upscale dining option is coming to downtown Wyandotte, promising a menu that's both tantalizing and inclusive.

The Vault on First, named for the building's original occupant, National Bank of Wyandotte, and later Charter

National Bank, is anticipated to open in mid-February. Diners will be able to see the original exposed brick, night deposit box, as well as other thematic reminders of the building's history. On fair weather days, a garage door in the bar will open to outdoor seating.

"Décor is going to be kind of an industrial-chic, much different than anything else Downriver," said Christ Doulos, owner of The Vault along with his wife Carole Bell-Doulos, and cousin Suzette Balaskas. "We want to say we're bringing a little bit of Downtown to Downriver."

Doulos said the restaurant business is in his blood, and to The Vault he brings over 40 years of experience. In 1979, Doulos opened R.P. McMurphy's in Wyandotte, before selling it in 2001. He also opened Lloyd's Bar and Grill on Grosse Ile in 1986 and sold it in 1997.

After working 18 years for Travel Centers of America as a district manager then vice president of the food division, Doulos retired in 2019. It was boredom that brought him out of retirement so soon, he said.

With a menu designed around high-quality selections of prime meat, fresh wild-caught seafood, entree salads, and interesting pasta dishes, The Vault certainly is a unique addition to downtown Wyandotte. Food will be locally sourced whenever possible, with the farm and ranch names indicated on the menu. The restaurant will also carry an impressive wine list of around 60 choices, ranging from fine house wine to more high-end options.

The Vault's menu will be allergy-friendly in that most dishes are modifiable to be gluten-free without sacrificing anything on taste. Vegan and vegetarian options will also be featured.

Doulos said his travels across 47 U.S. states heavily inspire dishes, ensuring diners will have meals they can't find anywhere else, and making Wyandotte "a mecca for people who want to experience different types of cuisine." Joining the team will be Head Chef Trace Roberts, who has spent 35 years in casino resorts and restaurants across the country. According to Doulos, Roberts does not shy away from using a variety of herbs and spices and prepares different interpretations of familiar dishes.

Like Rogers and Doulos, much of the staff comes from a restaurant background and are eager to provide that perfect dining experience. To ensure the team are experts on The Vault's offerings, Doulos designed a very inclusive training program.

"Our philosophy is 'the answer is yes, now what's the question?'" said Doulos, adding that if The Vault has the ingredients, they will accommodate a guest's request. "For example, if you want a grilled cheese, even if it's not on the menu, the server will ask you simply, 'what type of cheese and what type of bread would you like?'"

The Vault will be open for dine-in and carry out. To-go dishes will be served in takeaway containers that support the freshness of the food and feature a tamperproof sealing that promises its integrity while using third-party delivery services. Looking toward the future, when the weather warms, The Vault will add an herb garden to the roof of the building.

The Vault on First is located at 3058 1st Street in Wyandotte. For more information, visit thevaultonfirst.com.

MITTEN MADE Pickling Company

Bringing the flavor, not just the heat

By Lisa Howard

English teacher by day, hot sauce maker by night.

How many people can put that on their resumé? Ryan Looney can. He launched Mitten Made Pickling Company, a Wyandotte-based food business, in August 2020, when he started selling his Sweet Heat hot sauce online and in select stores.

He'd had pickles and hot sauce on the brain for a few years, ever since he was teaching at a high school that had a greenhouse.

"The greenhouse wasn't being used, and I thought it would be cool to have the kids grow something from the ground up and then take their produce to Eastern Market to learn the entrepreneurial side of things," Looney said.

Initially, his idea was to grow cucumbers that the students could pickle and sell. His plan was proceeding nicely—he got the greenhouse cleaned out and ready to use—but then he got a new job, and his new school didn't have a greenhouse. Still, the idea of using local produce to make something delicious stuck.

He started playing around in the kitchen, and after some test batches that were failure after failure, he started getting better at it.

"I remember making my first batch of what turned out to be Sweet Heat and thinking, 'Wow, I'm on to something here!'" he said.

Not long after that, he realized that the hot sauce market was, well, heating up. But unlike a lot of hot sauce makers, his goal wasn't to max out Scoville units.

"I took a page from microbreweries — they're not just putting out standard beer, they're making beer with interesting ingredients. It's more about nuance and flavor than heat. I wanted to create a flavor bomb, not burn your mouth off."

To that end, he chose pineapple and mango to balance out the peppers, onions, and vinegar, and he added some carrots for an underlying earthy sweetness. Although he sources as much of his produce as he can from Michigan farmers, some items can't be grown locally. But his next flavors, Little Ghost and Big Ghost, are going to include Michigan peaches and McIntosh apples to balance out ghost peppers, with Little Ghost having a lower pepper-to-fruit ratio to make it milder and Big Ghost adding a bit more heat. As is the case with Sweet Heat, those sauces will also not have any added sugar, preservatives, or xanthan gum, and they'll also be low-sodium and vegan.

"I really try to consider the consumer's health when I make my hot sauces," Looney said. "If I wouldn't eat it myself, then why would someone else?"

He plans to continue focusing on quality produce, using fresh and not frozen ingredients and creating sauces that enhance food rather than drown it out. His website has recipes that feature Sweet Heat in crab cakes, bratwurst, and hamburgers, as well as whisky sours and Bloody Marys. He also suggests including Sweet Heat in refreshing summer cocktails like margaritas to give them an island flair. And how about putting Sweet Heat on grilled shrimp skewers? Or try drizzling mahi mahi tacos with Sweet Heat.

Along with teaching English and growing his hot sauce empire, Looney is also a musician.

"I approach crafting my food exactly like crafting a song," he said. "It's like an art to me. And when it's ready, I release it for the world to enjoy."

FACING THE CHALLENGE

Global pandemic isn't stopping Downriver for Veterans

Downriver for Veterans has been helping veterans in Michigan for years. Ann Rudisill, a veteran herself, started the nonprofit organization in 2017.

The group helps those who served by offering a multitude of services, such as helping veterans pay their rent and utilities, providing funds for car repairs, and other essential expenses. In addition, the organization offers food, household goods, and other life essentials to those who need them.

A bump in the road

Due to COVID, Downriver for Veterans has not been able to have a fundraising event since last March. For now, they are operating solely on donations. And like everyone else, Rudisill has had to cancel some events due to the coronavirus, such as their pancake brunch with Santa, which was supposed to happen on December 13.

Some things still happening

However, on December 11, the organization provided free flu shots to residents and their families, and it's still holding PTSD discussions once a month at the Veterans Outreach Center in Lincoln Park. For those looking for a free haircut, Rudisill encourages people to call Downriver for Veterans at (734) 934-0532.

Downriver for Veterans is located at 2447 Fort Street (PO Box 275), Wyandotte, MI 48192. The organization accepts non-perishable food items, pet food, toiletries, and new bedding. It does not accept medical supplies or clothing.

DOWNRIVER FOR VETERANS

Hours: Monday, Wednesday and Friday - 11:00 a.m. – 2:00 p.m.
Tuesday and Thursday - Closed
Closed Saturday and Sunday

Giving Back

Local veteran and loan officer helps fellow community members this holiday season By Margaret Miller

This holiday season, people everywhere are trying to find little ways they can give back to their community or help those in need. Jacque Gorris, a local loan officer for Supreme Lending and also an eight-year United States Marine Corps veteran, plans to do just that.

“Me and my company (Supreme Lending) adopted a few families this holiday season,” Gorris said. “It is a way that we are able to give back and make a difference in the community.”

Gorris and his company are also giving back in other ways.

“In addition to Adopt-A-Family, we are also participating in Toys-For-Tots,” he added.

Adopt-A-Family is a program that connects sponsors with families to “adopt” by providing a family profile and a wish list. Sponsors can buy presents for their specific families and deliver them to the nonprofit unwrapped. The unwrapped presents are then delivered to the family just in time for the holidays.

“We usually have a drop box where people in our community can come by and donate various toys to,” Gorris said. “This year, because of the COVID pandemic, we had to scrap that original plan.”

Gorris said he always keeps an eye out for people in need.

“You will always see on Facebook, and online, posts that are like: ‘Hey, this veteran and their family need some help this holiday, if you want to adopt or donate to them,’ and I always try to jump at the opportunity,” Gorris said.

Gorris

Gorris also finds ways to help people by just doing his job every day. He guides customers in the community through their mortgages, appraisals, and closing procedures on their new homes.

“We pay for all of our veterans’ appraisals,” Gorris said.

As a veteran himself, Gorris and his company understands how life can be after serving. That’s why they choose to give back throughout the year, and especially during the holidays.

This year, Gorris has personally chosen to take part of his commission and put it toward a good cause.

“I chose to take part of my commission and put it toward the tiny homes project,” Gorris said.

The Tiny Homes project is currently being launched in the Downriver community by Downriver for Veterans (DFV). With COVID-19, there was a delay in finding land, but DFV is hopeful it will bring the dream of tiny homes to fruition very soon.

To get involved with Adopt-A-Family, Toys-For-Tots, or The Tiny Homes project, contact Downriver for Veterans at (734) 934-0532, or Jacque Gorris at (734) 624-8579.

Direct donations are also accepted on the Downriver for Veterans website at www.downriverforveterans.org.

Supreme Lending, located at 3271 West Road in Trenton, is a full-service mortgage lender. It has licenses in all 50 states and branches throughout the U.S. With numerous awards, it carries a “customer comes first” approach that helps homebuyers realize their dreams of ownership.

BUYING OR SELLING A HOME DURING A PANDEMIC? HERE'S WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW.

While the COVID-19 pandemic has delayed real estate transactions for some people, housing markets in many areas of the country are showing a strength and resiliency unimagined earlier this spring. It's critical to understand the pandemic's impact on real estate, from simply touring a home to the ability to close transactions.

"Whether you are new to homeownership or have been a homeowner for years, this is an unprecedented time. We want to ensure that during this pandemic, we can provide essential tips from REALTORS® for buyers and sellers so they have a safe and hassle-free experience," said Deanna Coleman, 2021 President of the Southeastern Border Association of REALTORS®

Below are some important tips on buying and selling a home during the pandemic:

What buyers need to know

Home tours will look a little different – Where in-person showings are still offered, potential buyers can expect quicker tours and may be asked to take extra precautions, such as removing shoes, using hand sanitizer and refraining from touching items in the home.

Many sellers have offered virtual tours of their homes through pre-recorded videos or live video streams. In fact, according to a recent NAR survey on the pandemic's impact on real estate, three in five REALTORS® said they are guiding buyers through virtual home tours.

Interest rates are low – While new social distancing measures change how buyers view potential homes, interest rates are near all-time lows and home prices are holding steady.

As more people file for unemployment, however, mortgage lenders may tighten lending standards, subsequently driving up rates – or delayed demand could push rates down further. Potential buyers can prepare for homeownership by understanding their budget, building a good credit history, and getting prequalified for a mortgage. Some lenders even allow borrowers to lock in interest rates for limited time periods.

Don't expect a discount – Nationally, home prices are holding steady, with the majority the same or higher from one year ago, according to NAR. In fact, the median existing-home price for all housing types was $310,600 in August 2020 – up 11.4% from August 2019 – and marked 102 straight months of year-over-year price gains as the number of homes sold hit the highest level since December 2006.

Expect delays – Those terminating a lease should leave some wiggle room, even an extra month or two, between moving out of a rental and into a new home in case of an unexpected delay. Hiring moving crews may prove challenging, so buyers should give movers as much notice as possible ahead of their scheduled move.

What sellers need to know

Showing and marketing homes during a time of social distancing may seem difficult, but a new wave of tech tools is helping streamline the remote transaction process, as buyers continue home searches online.

Use tech tools to help market and show your home – While in-person showings may be inadvisable, and even prohibited, many digital tools are available to help you continue marketing and showing your home. A REALTOR® can help coordinate three-dimensional interactive property scans, virtual tours (either pre-recorded or live), on-demand open houses, and virtual staging to showcase your property. If sellers receive an offer on their home, their REALTOR® has the ability to present it to them virtually as well.

Take steps to protect yourself – "Sight unseen" purchases are not a new phenomenon, but this pandemic has certainly increased their prevalence. Sellers may want to include language in the purchase agreement that ensures buyers acknowledge that they are responsible for personal verification, walkthroughs, and professional inspections to confirm that the property meets their needs.

Buyers are still searching – Just because they're not touring homes in-person doesn't mean buyers aren't continuing their search. As a result, nearly three in four REALTORS® say sellers have not lowered prices to attract buyers during the pandemic. As potential buyers increasingly browse homes online, having attractive and accurate photos and videos is even more important. Sellers may want to consider using this extra time at home to make updates around their home and take fresh pictures of those improvements.

Stronger TOGETHER

Downriver businesses come together to lift each other up

Two major efforts are underway to help Downriver businesses thrive.

#SupportDownriver, a Southern Wayne County Regional Chamber (SWCRC) initiative; and Destination Downriver, a coalition of organizations and municipalities, remind residents to shop local to see what the 18 Downriver communities have to offer.

“They pair well together, because they’re about marketing and supporting small business owners,” said Ronald J. Hinrichs, SWCRC president and CEO.

A joint effort

Destination Downriver is a coalition of key business leaders, government officials and nonprofit leaders who have promised to promote Downriver “as truly a hidden gem, a destination opportunity for vacationers and for job providers,” Hinrichs said. Downriver communities, once viewed as only an industrial and manufacturing hub, have evolved into places that mix history, culture and natural wonders. A place for people to go to dinner, shop and have fun.

“Brownfields have been reclaimed and converted into natural areas; walkways, biking and hiking trails connect the individual communities; marinas make waterways accessible and desirable while each municipality’s distinct personality shines,” Hinrichs said. “Destination Downriver is a unique experience and resounding evidence of what’s possible when communities, individuals and businesses work together to transform the ecological, environmental and economic makeup of an entire region.”

Go to destinationdownriver.com for more information.

Supporting businesses

The Support Downriver campaign is all about promoting the region and charging the residents in the communities to shop local, especially during the current economic and health crises presented by COVID-19. Some businesses are struggling and need support.

“It’s to come out of the current crisis stronger than ever,” Hinrichs said. “The idea is that government grants, loans and guidelines have been helpful to our small business community to navigate through the current uncertain times, but it’s not enough.”

The Chamber is asking residents and business owners to support local Downriver entrepreneurs with positive messaging on social media and to create numerous posts tagging local businesses.

“We want to provide struggling businesses with a powerful free marketing tool throughout this difficult time,” Hinrichs said. Meanwhile, businesses are becoming creative. He points to the cities of Taylor, Trenton and Wyandotte, and Brownstown Township, for example, as municipalities that are working to ease restrictions to assist in boosting the local economy and save shops, restaurants and jobs. Taylor, for instance, has streamlined outdoor business expansion requirements through an emergency ordinance, and is also focusing on issues like small business restart grants and collaborative purchases of personal protection equipment.

An extra boost

Hinrichs urges local, state and federal leadership to provide additional grant funding for businesses seeking PPE and other operational needs during the current pandemic.

He applauds Wayne County, which recently announced a $50 million small business grant program utilizing federal CARES Act funding that will provide critically needed funds to support small, local job providers as they seek to restart economic in-person activity safely and responsibly.

Other municipalities are also looking into a similar program with the encouragement and support of the SWCRC.

“Local businesses have been forced to close or face restricted operations during this time and they need our help,” he said. “As one united community, we will save lives, businesses and jobs.

While we do everything that is necessary to protect the health and well-being of our community, we cannot stand by as our region’s job providers and entrepreneurs lose everything they have worked so hard to gain, not only for themselves but for the people of our region.”

For more information on these initiatives and more, go to www.swcrc.com/SupportDownriver.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

THESE ARE ONLY A FEW OF THE MANY QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS ON OUR WEBSITE: WYANDOTTE.NET. PLEASE REVIEW THE WEBSITE'S FRONT DESK TAB FOR MORE INFO ABOUT EACH DEPARTMENT LISTED.

ANIMAL CONTROL

Q: What do I do if I find or have lost a cat or dog?

A: Downriver Central Animal Control is the intake shelter and picks up all lost domestic animals. They are located at 14300 Reaume Pkwy., Southgate, MI, 48195, two blocks west of the Southgate post office off Dix between Northline and Eureka. Domesticated animals will be picked up by our department or can be dropped off. You may call us at 734-246-1328*9. Requests after 5 p.m. may be directed to the Wyandotte Police Department's non-emergency number at 734-324-4438. The Wyandotte Adoption Center, 1170 Grove, has been turned into the adoption center for the DCAC. They do not accept stray animals. You may also visit our Facebook page. www.facebook.com/dcacashelter and post a picture of your dog. Pictures of incoming animals are posted there also.

Q: What do I do if a squirrel, opossum, raccoon, or other animal gets into my home?

A: Traps are available to capture non-domesticated animals that are causing property damage. Please contact the Downriver Central Animal Control at 734-246-1328 or 734-324-4438 (after 5 p.m.) to obtain a trap. Most traps will need to be picked up at the office. Once the animal is successfully trapped, you must contact Animal Control for pick up. Traps are rented out Mon-Wed. There is a $20 deposit with a $5 rental fee in which you will receive your deposit back within 5 days, $1 a day after 5 days. Animal Control will not pick up cages that are privately owned.

ASSESSORS OFFICE

Q: Property values in my neighborhood have been decreasing, will my property valuation be decreasing as well?

A: Unfortunately, there isn't a yes or no answer to that question. If you've owned your property for a significant amount of time, more than likely your State Equalized Value (SEV) far exceeds your Taxable Value. If this is the case, a decrease in valuation, caused by a slow real estate market, will be reflected in the SEV. The taxable value is required by the Michigan Constitution to increase each year by the rate of inflation or 5 percent, whichever is lower. In the case of a longtime property owner, the SEV could decrease, while the Taxable Value will continue to increase.

Q: If the SEV decreases, will I pay more or less in property taxes?

A: Your property taxes are based on the taxable value rather than the SEV. So, in the previous scenario you would pay more in taxes even though your SEV decreased.

Q: Why isn't my new assessment 50 percent of my purchase price?

The simple answer is that it is against the law. MCL 211.27 states that the purchase price is no longer the presumptive True Cash Value of a property. The assessment may be close to 50 percent of the purchase price but it is determined by investigating the other sales in the area and all of the SEVs are set using that sales study.

Q: Can I appeal my assessment, and when?

After you receive the Change of Assessment notice you may file a petition to make an appointment. Please see Board of Reviews FAQs and Common Assessment Terms on our website for more information.

END OF YEAR ESTATE AND TAX PLANNING

By: Gerald M. Morello, Jr., Esq.

Every year around this time, our offices receive a flurry of telephone calls, from clients and financial advisors alike, with questions regarding end of year estate and tax planning. This year is no different.

For taxpayers who proactively plan for their future, and the future of their children and grandchildren, I have put together a brief list of estate and tax planning issues that should be part of any discussion.

REVIEW OF ESTATE PLAN

If you have an estate plan in place, the end of the year is an ideal time to review your documents. The course of an entire year can greatly change a family's financial picture, as well as its social harmony. Consider who you've appointed as decision-makers for you in the event of your incapacity or death. Further, are your wishes current as to who receives your estate at your death and what the current distribution formula is? Lastly, if you do not have a comprehensive estate plan in place, you should think about having one completed, either before the close of the year or within the next year. Spending some money now to properly plan can save your family and estate much more money in the future.

GIFTING

The current annual federal gift tax exclusion amount for 2021 is $15,000 per recipient, per year. This means that a person can give a child, grandchild, or other recipient up to $15,000 in gifts in year 2021 without those gifts being subject to the federal gift tax (a married couple can jointly give up to $30,000 in gifts to a recipient). If an individual has a large estate, a gifting program should be considered. Essentially, you can pre-pay to your children, grandchildren, and other beneficiaries their future inheritance, without any current tax penalty, thereby allowing your heirs the avoidance of future estate taxes. But remember, if you do not make gifts in a given year, you lose your ability to use that year's gift tax exemption amount.

GIFTING OF BUSINESS SHARES OR INTEREST

For family business owners, this may be a great time to gift shares or interests in your business to those people who will take over the business once you step down. Since many businesses have seen a downturn in overall value, gifting shares or interests at today's value allows you to take advantage of its depressed value, instead of being hammered by it. Consider the use of non-voting shares to gift with a discounted value.

MAKE INFORMED DECISIONS

Speak with your estate planning attorney to fully understand all end of the year estate and tax planning issues mentioned in this article. Remember that there are many issues to address, so make sure you are fully informed.
